PLYMOUTH, March 24.—District Attorney Barker placed before the special session of the grand jury today the facts that led to the arrest of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton on the charge of having murdered her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, by poisoning.

Judge Hugo Dubuque in instructing the jury made it plain that any known revelation of what took place in the juryroom would be followed swiftly by the punishment of the offender. The witnesses summoned included Dr. Joseph Frame, who attended the admiral in his last illness, Prof. William Whitney of Harvard Medical school, who found arsenic in the admiral's stomach, and Mrs. June Almsworth Keyes and Miss Dorothy Almsworth, daughters of the widow by her first marriage.

Nurse Gave Testimony

Miss Annie Rooney of Boston, a trained nurse, was the first witness heard. Miss Rooney has specialized on mental diseases and in 1911 was invited to the Eaton home in Norwell, Mass., by Mrs. Eaton, with a view to determining whether the admiral showed symptoms of insanity.

She was followed into the juryroom by Mrs. Fred Corbett of Norwell, with whom Mrs. Keyes boarded several years ago. Mrs. Keyes is alleged to have told the witness that Admiral Eaton had threatened her. Miss Jessie Collamore, a neighbor of the Eatons, Charles Nordstrom, a private detective, and Mrs. Hannah Barnes of Rockland, who was formerly a housekeeper in the Eaton family, testified. Nordstrom recently gave out a statement in which he said that last summer Mrs. Eaton asked him to spy on the admiral because she thought her husband was insane. He undertook the work, he said, but did not go far as he was not paid. It had been suggested that Mrs. Eaton was obsessed with the thought that her husband was trying to poison other members of the family and this has given the impression that a commission may be appointed to determine the prisoner's sanity. Stories of jealousy between the Eatons have been told by Mrs. Barnes. During the six weeks that she was employed by them she was under instructions from Mrs. Eaton to refuse admittance to a woman neighbor during the absence of Mrs. Eaton from the house. A few weeks before the admiral's death, Mrs. Barnes had said Mrs. Eaton told her that "conditions in the house are unbearable. Something will have to be done pretty soon."

Clarence Rice, an undertaker of Rockland, was another witness. He had nothing to do with the preparation of the admiral's body for burial and recently stated that all he knew of the Eaton family was "third hand gossip."

When Rice finished his testimony at 12:45 adjournment was taken until two o'clock.

Mrs. Keyes and her sister Dorothy Almsworth, Dr. Whitney and a number of other witnesses were then waiting to be called.

Special Session of Grand Jury

PLYMOUTH, March 24.—The Plymouth county grand jury, composed of seven farmers, five carpenters, three painters and nine other men from similar walks of life, assembled here today to consider the evidence on which Mrs. Jennie May Eaton is held for murdering her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Eaton. The ordinary work of the grand jury was completed last month, so that the session today was a special one and although called for 10 a. m. it was nearly noon before the members arrived.

In the meantime a score of witnesses had come streaming into the grim courthouse, summoned for the most part from the district about the village of Assinippi in the town of Norwell, where Admiral Eaton died. Among the number were his two stepdaughters, Mrs. June Keyes and Miss Dorothy Almsworth. These two young women came from Norwell by automobile, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Condon. Their grandmother, Mrs. George Harrison, who was in the house at the time of the admiral's death, remained at home.

District Attorney Albert Barker had charge of the presentation of the evidence to the grand jury.

LONG SESSION OF COURT

John Drury appeared in police court this morning charged with drunkenness and he pleaded not guilty to the charge, (telling the court that he had not taken a drink of anything stronger than water for four months). Officers Dewart and Clark, who arrested the defendant, had a story to tell the judge which sounded much different from Drury's tale. According to the officers' testimony Drury has been a nuisance around the Middlesex street district for some time and had come to a state of mind where he considered that the police had no authority to interfere with him. Officer Clark escorted him to his home twice Saturday afternoon and strongly advised him to stay there, but Drury, the officer said, persisted in coming down and getting intoxicated for the third time. However, on this appearance the officers took him in charge and he was haled to the police station. Judge Enright was forced to believe the testimony of the patrolman, although Drury was openly of the opinion that his word was as reliable as theirs. The court gave him a vacation at the state farm.

Officer Considine told the court that he had found John H. Sullivan asleep in the Hildreth building in a very intoxicated condition at an early hour Sunday morning. This was Sullivan's third arrest for drunkenness within a year but the court let him off with a promise to take the pledge and go to work.

Created Disturbance in Theatre

The case of a young man who was arrested in one of the local theatres for being drunk and disturbing the peace should be a lesson to those who quarrel with him but remained uncaught. Officer Kenney made the arrest and testified that the young man was in a drunken condition and persistently gave vent to cat-calls and cheers when anything occurred during the performance, which particularly pleased him. The boy's mother made a strong appeal in his behalf and after giving him some sound advice the court let him off with a fine.

Mary Lassar was sent to jail for two months on the recommendation of the probation officer. She has been in court several times within the year for drunkenness. The case of Joseph Sheeran was continued until tomorrow morning's session. He is charged with assault and battery upon one of his countrymen.

Frank J. White, Frank F. Conole, Thomas T. Monahan, Charles H. Garfield and Daniel Kellher all received fines for their second appearance for drunkenness. Andrew Marchand and Walter Durkin paid $5 fines for being intoxicated on the Lord's day, while Daniel Barrett and John W. Scully, who were also arrested yesterday, were sent to the state farm.

There were eight releases by Probation Officer Slatery and an even number of first offenders who received the customary $2 tax.

OMAHA, Neb., March 24.—A tornado swept through Omaha shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, cutting a path four to six blocks wide and eight miles long, causing an appalling loss of life and immense destruction of property. Hundreds of buildings were swept away and it appeared that at least a hundred had been killed and thrice that number injured.

Franked Bodies Recovered

The bodies of Moses Carter and his wife, the first recovered, were found under the crushed roof of their home, while the mangled body of their child was found 15 feet away. Mrs. Flora Woods was found unconscious 70 feet from her home. She had her small baby clasped in her arms.

They were carried to a church, which together with the Greenwood school, had been converted into a temporary hospital, and were given medical attention.

Houses Levelled to Ground

On Vorhes street, between Third and Fifth streets, a great house was levelled to the ground. The molasses factory there was demolished and the Garland foundry was severely damaged. The storm was accompanied by a severe electrical display and rain which almost equaled a cloudburst. Crossed wires and lightning started fires throughout the debris, but they were quenched by the heavy rain.

Convent Unroofed

The convent of the poor, at 28th and Hamilton streets, was unroofed. An unroofed report said that the Sacred Heart academy at 28th and Bart streets was demolished.

The storm so paralyzed the telephone service that no reports of the disaster could be communicated to the outside world.

The Omaha telegraph offices sent their associated press messages to Lincoln by an early morning train. At 1:30 a. m. Omaha presented a sorry spectacle as a result of the storm. The Field club, which is in the western part of the city, is one mass of debris. Federal soldiers from Omaha assisted the police in keeping the crowds in order.

It is impossible at this hour to get any accurate estimates of loss of life and property.

One Hundred Dead

One hundred dead is a conservative estimate and that the damage to property will run up into the hundreds of thousands is certain.

Trains which pulled into the city shortly before 5 o'clock were stopped at the edge of the city to take on dead bodies and the injured.

The villages of Beatrice, Dundee and Florence, suburbs of Omaha, are practically wiped out.

Main Fell After Tornado

The fact that a heavy rain fell for half an hour after the tornado saved the mass of wreckage and many of the bodies of the dead from being burned. The Webster street telephone station, containing a score or more girls, were on the buildings hit by the storm and in a moment were twisted and torn. Several of the girls were killed outright and others were injured.

Panic in Theatre

At 24th and Lake streets a moving picture show, which was just putting on its film was struck. The roof of the building fell in and in the mad rush which was made through the only exits opened many of these who were not hurt by the collapse of the building were trampled and crushed. The rush, continued, however, over the bodies of the dead and a few of attendants escaped.

Militia Called Out

Mayor Dahlman of Omaha wired Governor Morehead shortly after midnight for several militia companies to prevent the residences and the dead bodies from being looted. The three Omaha companies were only partly available, according to reports.

Fire Added to Horror

The tornado swept in from the southwest and zig-zagged to the northeast over the residence portion of the city, the track being from two to four blocks wide. Fire sprang up all over this area and added to the horror of the destruction.

Firemen were unable to respond to the numerous alarms and many houses were allowed to burn to the ground. The police were unable to properly protect the stricken district and the soldiers from Fort Omaha were called out. The tornado zone is now practically under martial law.

Residences Trampled to Pieces

Residences were taken from their foundations and twisted to pieces by the wind. The Woodmen of the World building, the highest structure in the city, was damaged to a great extent. Every piece of glass from two sides being blown out. It was reported that the Illinois Central bridge over the Missouri river was destroyed.

What is known as the Venus valley district was levelled by the wind. Refugees by the hundreds flocked to the business section. They were taken care of in the principal hotels.

Hospitals Filled

The hospitals were full of patients. Every ambulance in the city was rapidly swelling the congestion of the wards.

PRES. WILSON SENDS MESSAGE TO MAYOR DAHLMAN—VOLUNTEERS ASSISTANCE

WASHINGTON, March 24.—President Wilson telegraphed Mayor Dahlman, mayor of Omaha, as follows:

"I am deeply distressed at the news received from Nebraska. Can we help in any way?"

KNOWN DEATH LIST OF 18 AND PROPERTY DAMAGE OF $500,000 IN TERRE HAUTE

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 24.—With a known death list of 18, reports brought by messengers on horseback from the south part of Vigo county early today indicated that the toll of a tornado which struck here last night would be increased to 50. It may be several days before the exact number of dead will be known, as many are believed to be buried in the ruins of their houses. The property loss probably will exceed $500,000.

In addition to destroying about 300 homes in the south portion of Terre Haute, Pa., a small town six miles south was destroyed and the intervening territory devastated.

The injured will number at least 300 and many of these are in a serious condition. The hospitals are filled to their capacity.

WIRES DOWN BETWEEN OMAHA AND POINTS AS FAR NORTH AS ST. PAUL

CHICAGO, March 24.—Shortly after midnight last night, a terrific storm which raged over the central west and middle states late yesterday and last night reached Chicago. Its coming was preceded by practically total failure of telegraph connections in all directions. Reports of the disaster in the southern and central parts of Illinois could not be confirmed because of the impossibility of getting into communication with the endangered cities. Damage in Chicago was confined at the storm's coming to broken windows, small buildings unroofed and trees blown down.

"The condition of the wire service indicates that the storm area radiates from Omaha, a great distance in every direction," said a Western Union wire chief. "Wires are down between Omaha and points as far north of St. Paul, as well as on other directions."

At 2 o'clock virtually every telegraph and telephone wire into the offices of the telegraph companies and press agencies had failed.

PERTH, MINING TOWN, WAS WIPED OUT BY TORNADO AND MANY WERE INJURED

GREENCASTLE, Pa., March 24.—Perth, a mining town ten miles west of here, was practically wiped out by a tornado last night. Many persons were injured, but no loss of life is reported.

LONG DISTANCE PHONE MESSAGE SAYS OMAHA WAS SWEEP BY TWO TORNADO

OMAHA, Neb., March 24 (via long distance telephone to Denver).—Omaha and vicinity were swept by two distinct windstorms late yesterday afternoon. Both of cyclonic intensity, which spread death and destruction in their wakes. Fire, which broke out in many of the wrecked buildings, added to the horror.

At 5 a. m. the best available figures placed the number of dead at between 100 and 200, with less than one hundred more seriously injured and probably 300 others more or less seriously hurt. All fires have been put out. During the night 50 alarms were turned in.

UNCONFIRMED REPORTS RECEIVED AT CHICAGO SAY 1000 WERE KILLED OR INJURED

CHICAGO, March 24.—An unconfirmed report received by the Chicago office of the Western Union Telegraph Co., says that 1000 persons have been killed or injured in the tornado in Omaha and that the city is burning.

This information was received by the Western Union at Denver from Grand Island, Neb., the nearest city to Omaha with which the telegraph officials were able to communicate.

OFFICIALS LATE THIS AFTERNOON SAID THAT AT LEAST 200 PERISHED IN STORM

OMAHA, Neb., March 24 (via telephone to Lincoln).—Gov. Morehead, Mayor Dahlman and Police Commissioner Hilder stated at noon today that at least 200 were killed in yesterday evening's storm here. Reports from Council Bluffs were to the effect that four more bodies had been recovered from the ruins of homes here. The list of injured is expected to reach 300.

Mr. Alfred Gauthier and his daughter Alice, of Montreal, Que., who are the guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Walter Gauthier, 202 Cheever street, as well as Mrs. Joseph Hamel of Trois Rivières, Que., who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. P. W. Caisse, Jr., of 772 Merrimack street, were among the passengers on the train that was wrecked Saturday morning at Lyndonville, Vt. Fortunately they all escaped without any injury.

According to Mr. Gauthier, who came to attend the marriage of his brother George, who was married this morning, the train composed of cars of the C. P. railroad, left Montreal, Que., at 8 o'clock Friday night and was scheduled to arrive in Lowell at about 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

The train, which was going at a very slow rate of speed, was brought to a full stop just before the engine reached a small bridge over the Passumpsic river, at Lyndonville at about four o'clock Saturday morning. The quick stop threw the passengers against each other, some of them striking seat-tees and the sides of the cars, but fortunately no one was injured. A few seconds later, before the passengers were aware of the trouble, the engine with its crew plunged into the ice-choked stream. The other cars remained on the tracks. The fireman was brought back aboard the train, but the engineer swam across the narrow river.

Mr. Gauthier says it was fortunate that the engineer noticed the danger before reaching the bridge and also that the train was not going very fast, for a large number of people would surely have perished in the wreck, as there were about 125 passengers on the train. All were stalled on the Canadian side of the river and it was not until 5 o'clock the same afternoon that the trip was resumed.

Mr. Gauthier says about the hardest proposition while waiting in the Vermont town was to get food. He claims that people came along later in the day with sandwiches which they were offering for the small sum of 50 cents apiece. However very few ate that day and late in the afternoon traffic was resumed, but by way of another route and it was at 5 o'clock yesterday morning that the train bearing the many passengers rolled into the Northern station.

The weather was pleasant and the stay in the little country town was not as bad as it would have been on any other occasion. The passengers had two other narrow escapes on their way which they did not know about until they were stopped in Lyndonville, when it was found that two other bridges crossed by the train a short time sooner, had been washed away by the flood. There was almost a panic when the passengers alighted from the train, but they were soon quieted down and assured that all danger was gone and when it was known that no one was injured, the normal state of affairs was resumed.

PLEADED GUILTY TO MURDER

William A. McDonald, Who Killed His Wife With Razor Held Without Bail

CAMBRIDGE, March 24.—William A. McDonald, who yesterday killed his wife with a razor in Arlington as she was returning from church, pleaded guilty to murder today. Judge Almy at first refused to accept the plea and directed that a plea of not guilty be entered. Later the judge asked McDonald if he persisted in his original plea, and upon the man answering affirmatively, Judge Almy substituted the plea of guilty and held McDonald without bail for the June term of the grand jury.

Shamrock Club

The Shamrock club held their final meeting in A. O. H. hall yesterday and completed final arrangements for their Easter social, Wednesday evening of this week. As the hall will be decorated for the occasion and as it is the first dance after Lent, the members look forward to a large gathering. Mr. William Madden was chosen chairman of the dance committee and Mr. G. S. Sullivan, secretary.

CLEANING THE STREETS

Street Department Starts Its Spring Work

The street department started its spring cleaning this morning and six gangs, all regular men, are at work in different sections of the city. Complaints are coming in from all quarters about the condition of the streets and Commissioner Donnelly said today that he hoped to have all of the principal streets in good condition before the end of the week. Andover street, from East Merrimack street to E. St. Bill's house, is in bad shape and a number of complaints have been received concerning it. This is a county road and City Engineer Kearney has written to the county authorities to see if they would be willing to hurry along the necessary repairs and to do the work in conjunction with the street department.

RICHESON LAWYER IN EATON CASE

William A. Morse Called by the Woman's Attorneys—Refused to Discuss the Case

BOSTON, March 24.—On the eve of the presentation of evidence against Mrs. Jennie Eaton before a grand jury at Plymouth this morning, William A. Morse, senior counsel for Clarence V. T. Richeson, was called by the woman's attorneys to discuss the case. Mr. Morse, who is in company with Mr. Francis J. Goggin and Judge George W. Kelley, spent more than two hours in conference with her family in the morning.

That the trio of lawyers were going over in detail the charge of murder, that had been lodged against the naval officer's widow, was denied by Mr. Morse. He declined, however, absolutely to tell in detail any results of the conference.

The day brought forth additional witnesses to the alleged state of mind of Mrs. Eaton that she was

Wide Hunt for Poison Sale

The entire force of the state police, it was learned yesterday, is now at work on the poison hunt with more or less intensity. Likewise the police forces of towns and cities all over the state are co-operating in the slender hope that some arsenic sales may be uncovered which will open up a trail to Atchafalpa.

The impression is growing in the minds of the investigators that the admiral died of cumulative effects of poisoning—that the arsenic which caused his death was administered in more than one dose—possibly over a stretch of as many as three days.

The neighbors of the Eatons at Atchafalpa, who, up to the present time, have shown a considerable willingness to discuss the case, and who have contributed volumes of gossip to the press, yesterday began to assume an attitude of secretiveness only equalled by some of the investigators.

It was a matter of difficulty to get from any one of them the admission that they had been summoned to appear before the grand jury this morning. So far as is known, however, the list of about a score who are called upon to testify has not been added to.

Mrs. Eaton and Dorothy Almsworth, Mrs. Eaton's two daughters, are looking forward to the grand jury investigation as affording them their first opportunity of seeing their mother since her arrest.

In case Mrs. Harrison is well enough to go to Plymouth it is expected that she, too, will take advantage of the fact to see her daughter.

Sensitive Hunters Busy

Sensitive hunters yesterday besieged both the Eaton place and the humble home of "Jim" Prouty across the way. Constable Hammond had to be on the lookout all the time to keep parties that arrived in automobiles, carriages and on foot from invading the premises and taking away anything and everything that might commemorate the gruesome case. They even broke off twigs from the trees.

One such party, foiled in their endeavor to get anything from the Eaton place, went to Mr. Prouty's and succeeded in getting from him four large and ornate cut glass goblets which had been a gift to him from Mrs. Eaton some time ago.

Throughout all the daylight hours the passersby peered into windows and passed and repassed again and again before the Eaton house. One party tried to get into the house on the plea that they were cold.

Mrs. Keyes Goes Walking

One member of the family eschewed to leave the house during the day. It was Mrs. June Keyes, and with the collie dogs she walked as far as Jacob's pond. On her return she was accompanied by Constable Hammond, who went to order to protect her from curious or intruding strangers.

The police were yesterday reported to have located Harry Cate, the Rockland man who used to reside with the Eatons, and to whom Mrs. Eaton is reported to have made threats against her husband. He will be one of the witnesses at the grand jury proceedings. It is reported.

In addition to the already published list of witnesses, it is understood that Charles H. Colgate, Jr., a former family physician, in whose office Mrs. Eaton was said to have been treated, will be called. Also will be Mrs. Fred Corbett of Maine's Corner, with whom June lived for a time.

4 HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH

Defective Switch Caused a Collision

BOSTON, March 24.—Two surface cars containing more than fifty passengers were partly demolished by a broadside collision at Dartmouth street and Columbus avenue shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Four persons were hurt by flying glass, and the crash was loud enough to be heard by residents of the neighborhood within a radius of two blocks.

Those injured were John Cleary, the motorman, who was tossed several feet through the side of his wrecked vestibule; Dr. Francis Crawford of the Deer Island hospital; Henry J. Smith of 7 Cazenove street, and his wife Clara. They were treated by Dr. Francis R. Morgan of 333 Columbus avenue and were able to go to their homes unassisted.

The car was coming along Dartmouth street from Boylston, and was supposed to take the switch and turn into Columbus avenue. The electric switch did not operate, however, and the car shot straight ahead on the other track along Dartmouth street, striking the middle of a Franklin Park car traveling north on Columbus avenue.

The windows of the Franklin Park car were broken and woodwork was smashed on one side. The front of the colliding car was wrecked completely. The noise of the collision was sufficient to attract a crowd of several hundred. The Franklin Park car was lifted from the rails, but was shunted along within a few minutes to a siding. Traffic was delayed by a short time.

Bodies Will Be Buried

3 BURNED TO DEATH

Man, Wife and Daughter Perished in Blaze

GLASSBORO, N. J., March 24.—Lying in the cellar, amid the smoldering ruins of their home, the charred bodies of Lee Wharton, 38 years old, his wife, Mary, 32, and their 6-year-old daughter Lillian were discovered yesterday following a mysterious fire early yesterday, which destroyed their little frame home on the new Brooklyn-Williamstown road, about 19 miles from here.

The body of Johnson Hemphill, 12 years old, a farmhand on a neighboring farm, was found in a shed in the rear of the burned house with a lead of shot through his heart.

Mystery surrounds the four deaths. What occurred up to the time Hemphill was shot, how he was shot and how the house was set on fire are details which coroner Stutz yesterday vainly endeavored to ascertain.

A double barreled shotgun with one empty shell was found in the little kitchen near where the body of Hemphill was discovered. The latter was said by neighbors to have been on friendly terms with Mrs. Wharton, and it is declared they were at a moving picture show in Williamstown Saturday night.

Whether this caused a fight between the two men, during which Hemphill was shot by Wharton, or whether Hemphill killed himself after a quarrel, are questions being asked by those investigating the case.

An incubator which stood in the kitchen of the home may have been responsible for the fire in which the three members of the family perished. Their bodies were so badly burned that the coroner was unable to determine whether or not they had been shot before the flames attacked them.

The Richmond Conference

Farmers business men, and school workers met to discuss rural schools, agricultural credits, marketing methods and other pressing problems of country life at the conference for education in the south, to be held at Richmond, Va., April 16-18. Each group will have special conferences on its own particular work, and then all will come together in a general session to discuss fundamental points in the upbuilding of rural life.

In response to the invitation of Governor Mann, of Virginia, the governors of nearly all the southern states have appointed delegations of farmers and business men to attend the Richmond meeting and take part in the discussion of such important topics as: Lack of capital in farming and how it may be remedied; the tenant evil, its extent and influence; why business men are concerned with the rural problem; how to organize and conduct cooperative marketing associations; how to make the rural schools educate more effectively for the demands of the country life; and how to make the country a better place to live in.

At the farmers' conference it is expected that a definite plan for organizing and managing cooperative marketing associations will be worked out. Before the business conference the farmers' meeting will be held. The situation in the south will be presented by men who have made a special study of its possibilities and needs; and bankers, merchants and manufacturers will discuss how they may aid in the development of agricultural resources.

Features of the conference will be an interstate meeting of state and county superintendents, teachers of agriculture, and other educators, at which the subject for discussion will be "The Most Effective Means for Developing the Rural School." A. C. Menahan, rural school specialist in the United States Bureau of Education, will urge the necessity for a well-defined, constructive county plan in rural education. Typical rural school problems will be discussed by county superintendents and others who are keenly interested in the improving of the country school, such as: Albert S. Cook, of Baltimore County, Md.; Jebelton Judd, of White County, N. C.; Miss Rhea C. Scott and L. J. Hamilton, superintendents in Virginia and West Virginia, respectively; Miss Jessie Vance, of Mason County, Ky.; A. B. Jones, Equality, Ala.; J. S. Stewart, Athens, Ga.; and many others.

Arrangements for the Richmond meetings are in charge of A. P. Bourland, of Washington, D. C., who is the executive secretary of the conference.

HE COMMITTED SUICIDE

Man Despondent Over Financial Troubles

Morris Goldfarb of 23 Daly street, becoming despondent over financial troubles, committed suicide yesterday at his home by drinking the contents of a pint bottle of creolin. He was removed to St. John's hospital, where he died a few hours later.

As far as could be learned Goldfarb entered into a partnership with another young man of Daly street, and the two bought horses with the intention of selling them over again, a sort of speculative business. This did not prove successful and finally Goldfarb sold his interests to his partner and went to New York. He returned yesterday with his wife and two-year-old baby with the former's mother.

He returned to his home and there drank creolin. His wife returned to the house a short time later and found her husband unconscious beside the kitchen table. She called for help and milk, mustard and other poison antidotes were administered, but this was of no avail. Finally the ambulance was summoned and the sick man was removed to the hospital, where he passed away shortly after 9 o'clock. Deceased is survived by his wife and baby.

DR. ANNA H. SHAW

Was Unable to Attend Saturday Night Meeting of Y. M. C. A.—Address Given by Miss Mills

As Dr. Anna H. Shaw, who was to have been the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night was unable to be present on account of illness, Miss Harriet May Mills, president of the New York Equal Suffrage League, spoke to about 200 people who gathered there.

Although the news that Dr. Shaw could not be present at first disappointed the audience, Miss Mills proved to be a resolution to none in regard to this work.

A resolution was proposed, thanking Representative Joseph Craig and Chas. H. Williams, for their favorable vote on the equal suffrage bill, and asking Representatives Olin W. Butler, Dennis A. Murphy, Eugene F. Toomey, Henry A. Smith, and Victor F. Jewett to give their votes in favor of said bill when it comes up again next Tuesday.

The resolution was adopted unanimously, though a few refrained from voting and one man shouted "No!" as he was making a run for the stairs.

Keeping the Body in Repair

Nature intended that the body should do its own repairing—and it would do so were it not for the fact that most of us live other than a natural life.

Nature didn't intend that we should wear corsets, tight collars or shoes, nor live in badly ventilated and draughty houses, nor eat and drink some of the things that we do nor ride in street cars when we should walk. The consequence is that the body when it gets out of order must look for outside help to make the necessary repairs.

For weak stomachs and the indigestion or dyspepsia resulting, and the multitude of diseases following therefrom, no medicine can be more adaptable as a curative agent than DR. A BIG PIANO SALE

PIANO TRUST CAN'T DOWN THE
Roxbury Storage Salesrooms

The Fight Grows Harder and More Bitter

A Great Chance for the Public to Buy at Cut Prices
A piano sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a mark-down sale. The very nature of the business here is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular piano store where they are expected to make a profit on each piano. We don't let any piano leave our doors; a sacrifice in price, a sacrifice in quality on which the face of it reads competition defied and it is sold to the first wise man or woman for the price marked on the tag. Price doesn't mean anything at these sales. We cut and double cut prices on all makes alike; we ask no favors, we want none, and we give none. In sales like these someone's loss is your gain, the profit is all yours. The best instruments of the world's best makers are in the sacrifice sale.

CHELMSFORD ST. HOSPITAL

Inmates Made Happy on Easter Day

Easter Sunday was a day of rare happiness for the inmates of the Chelmsford Street hospital for their spiritual and temporal welfare was well looked after by Supt. Dowd. At 7:30 in the morning high mass was celebrated in the chapel by Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., chaplain of the institution, who was assisted on the altar by Masters John Dowd, son of Supt. Dowd and William Golden. The main altar and shrines were beautifully adorned with Easter and calla lilies, pink and tropical plants. The decorations were supplied by the Misses McAdams, Miss Madden, Mrs. Costello, Miss Welch, Miss Cunningham, Mrs. Kane, Miss Cronin, Miss Morris, Miss Cumiskey, Miss Bradley, Miss Bontin, all nurses and attendants, and Mrs. M. J. Dowd, Miss Marion Dowd and Master John Dowd. A volunteer choir was under the direction of Commissioner Jas. E. Donnelly and was composed of Miss Katherine Mullin, soprano; Miss Eliza King, contralto; Miss Minnie Davey, organist; John J. Dalton, tenor, and Inspector of Buildings Frank A. Connor, and Commissioner Donnelly, baritone. The choir sang Rosevelt's mass. At the offertory Rosevelt's "Ave Maria Stella" was given by the quintet. At communion a trio consisting of Miss Mullin and Messrs. Dalton and Donnelly rendered Verdi's "Jesu Dei Fili". At the conclusion of the service the choir sang the English hymn, "Today He's Risen." A beautiful sermon on the text, "He is Risen," was given by Fr. Fletcher, who addressed himself particularly to the inmates. Among those who attended the service was His Honor Mayor O'Donnell, who later in the morning went through the institution with Supt. Dowd, shaking hands with the inmates and giving them words of good cheer. His Honor was well pleased with conditions of the hospital. As the result of his visit a few changes will probably be made within a short time. Among them will be the removal of a wall in the chapel which will increase the accommodations and the removal of the high board wall in front of the institution, a relic of the old days when prisoners and insane persons were kept here. The removal of the fence will make the view of the inmates of the outside world and do away with the prison aspect of the place.

Supt. Dowd provided the inmates with the traditional ham and eggs for breakfast, and a sumptuous roast pork dinner.

PRESENTED PURSE

Mr. Richard P. Fournier Receives Token of Esteem From Shopmates at Saco-Loell Co.

On last Saturday, Mr. Richard P. Fournier, an employee at the Saco-Loell Machine Shop, resigned from the service of that concern to accept a more lucrative and responsible position with another firm. On his departure he was presented a purse of gold by Mr. Bert Berry, who in a fitting speech, made the presentation on behalf of his shopmates as a token of their appreciation of loyalty and esteem. By Mr. Berry, the purse was completely by surprise. Though taken completely by surprise, nevertheless, Mr. Fournier made an appropriate reply in which he thanked the men for their gift and for the good feeling which it represented, and moreover assured them of his high regard for them and for their welfare. He expressed his regrets at leaving his friends at the shop where he has been employed for the past ten years. He received the hearty wishes of all for success in his new venture.

How to Reach the Cause of the Trouble

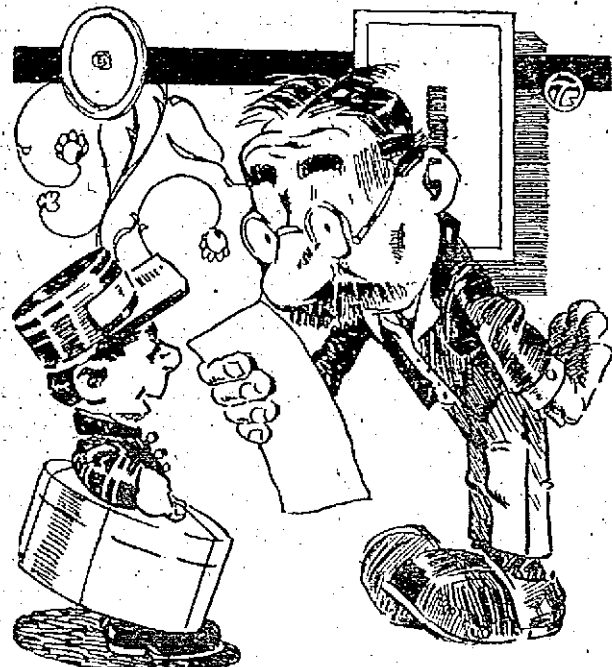

Of all skin troubles, doctors say 75 per cent. are due to eczema in one form or another. They are constantly called upon to relieve this distressing condition and for years have successfully prescribed Sulpholac.

Many have been the attempts to incorporate sulphur in a cream or ointment. This has been achieved in Sulpholac, where it is combined with an active and efficient germ destroyer.

These ingredients make Sulpholac remarkably successful in treating skin afflictions. Even the most stubborn cases of eczema are quickly controlled, and the painful, itching, burning sensation is dispelled and the skin is healed and restored to normal health.

DAVID KIMBALL DEAD

Tyngsboro Veteran Died at Soldiers' Home

David Kimball of Tyngsboro died at the Old Soldiers' home, Togus, Me., last week. News of his death was received in this city yesterday. Mr. Kimball was quite well known in Lowell and many a Lowellian feasted, in the old days, at Kimball's table. David and his wife lived in a little cottage house just beyond the old saw mill at the further end of Mountain Rock and the Kimball house was noted for its fine chicken dinners. The house was burned down some time ago, and David Kimball, who was a veteran of the Civil war, went to live at the Soldiers' home, Togus, Me., over two years ago. His wife survives him.

IN MERRIMACK SQUARE

Traffic Squad Will Keep it Clear

Move on! Keep your own side of the street! Don't block traffic! These words of command you will hear uttered in Merrimack square if you don't get a move on. Mayor O'Donnell has established a traffic squad for the square and the plan became operative this morning. The squad is in charge of Lieut. Martin J. Connors and the officers have been told to have the law lived up to, to the very letter. The mayor instructed the superintendent of police to instruct his men to see to it that the traffic rules are lived up to, absolutely. The police have been instructed to take offenders to court if necessary.

The mayor's idea is for a mobile force. When there is a rush in the square, as is often the case on Saturdays and Sundays and on other occasions, officers will come from other beats to assist in enforcing the traffic rules in the square. The mayor says his appropriation will not admit of putting on extra officers, but he thinks he can make ends meet by purchasing a motor cycle that will enable one patrolman to cover two or three beats when necessary.

The mayor will have lines painted in Central, Merrimack and Prescott streets describing the proper course for teams and automobiles to take and if they cross the line they will hear about it. The lines will describe the turns and how they shall be made.

STAKE THEIR LIVES AGAINST DEATH IN THREE YEARS' CRUISE UP AMAZON RIVER

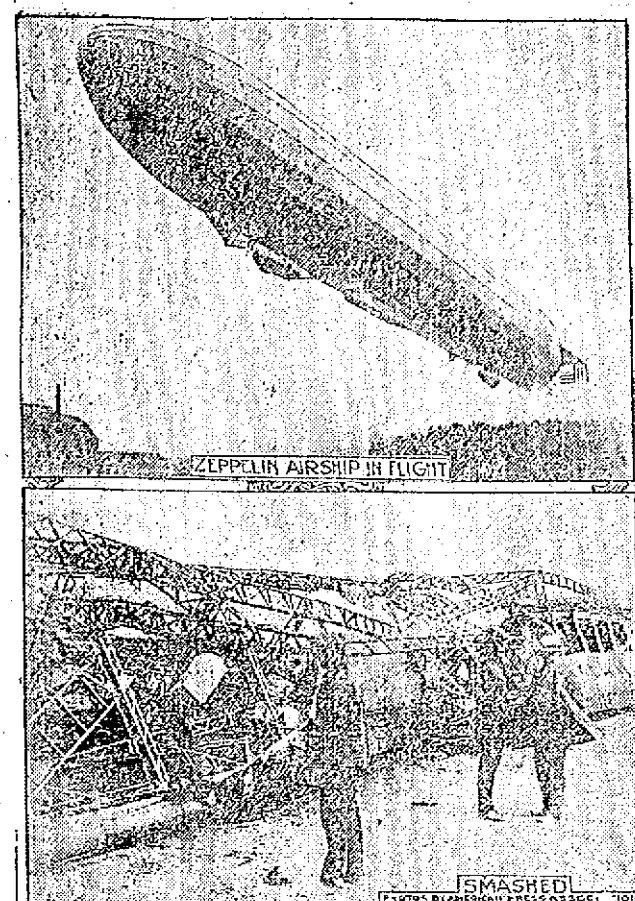

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—On an expedition which will take them into the densest jungles of South America, the yacht Pennsylvania, with fifteen men aboard, left on a three years' trip to explore the Amazon river and its tributaries in the interest of the University of Pennsylvania museum. The Pennsylvania, which was bought by the university, was formerly the Merrimack and is in command of Captain J. H. Rowen, U. S. N.

The leader of the expedition is Dr. William C. Farnabee, curator of the American section at the museum. The other explorers are Dr. Franklin B. Church, a recognized expert in the study of tropical diseases, and Sandy McNabb, a scientist and traveler of wide experience. The crew of the Pennsylvania is composed of picked men, all of whom are familiar with tropical conditions. Each man carries on his hip a revolver, ammunition and a large hunting knife. To be as diplomatic as possible in dealing with the natives the Pennsylvania will carry a large assortment of colored shawls, fancy beads and other novelties that will appeal to the eye and which will be handed to them in the same way that William Penn traded with the Indians many years ago.

KAISER ABANDONS AIR TRIP AFTER LATEST SMASHUP TO ZEPPELIN

BERLIN, March 24.—Another Zeppelin airship has gone to smash. This time it was one of the new war dirigibles, and it was wrecked by the wind near Karlsruhe. This latest accident has probably settled the kaiser in his determination not to go aloft in one of the count's big airships, no matter how fine the weather. The emperor is enthusiastic over aeronautics and had recently arranged for his first trip in the air, but the empress persuaded him not to risk his life. The fate of this latest war air fighter has been shared by several previous Zeppelins. The illustration shows one of the big air craft in flight and what it looked like after it had been wrecked. It was dashed to the earth during a storm, and nothing was left of it but a mass of torn silk, twisted steel rods and smashed wood work.

LOWELL DAY APRIL 1

Arrangements to Make it Great Attraction

The arrangements for the grand Lowell day celebration which the local board of trade is planning are progressing with rapidity and uninterrupted, with every indication favorable to a record celebration.

Arrangements are being made with the street railway company whereby visitors from all the towns and cities within a radius of 20 miles will be transported into Lowell to witness and take part in the celebration, and this will be done at the expense of the board of trade and the Merchants' Protective Association. Nearly all of the prominent merchants of the city have agreed to prepare attractive window displays of Lowell-made goods and in every other way possible to boom the city's industries and interests. There will be several other rare and enjoyable features provided for visitors and residents on that day, and the event as a whole should be of decided advantage to the city. It is expected that great crowds of people from out of town will flock to Lowell on Lowell day.

Steps Unpaid For

About two years ago Supt. Whitte of the park department had new concrete steps built at the High Street entrance to the Moody school. The work came under the head of "permanent improvement" and now comes the rub as to who will pay for it.

At the time that the steps were put in, or about that time, entertainments were given up by the parents of the children of the Moody school and the proceeds of the entertainments were used to improve the school grounds, grading, planting of trees, etc.

The steps, however, did not figure in the improvements for which the entertainments were held and it would seem that Mr. Whitte put them in of his own accord, believing that they would be paid for out of the receipts of the entertainments.

Principal Greene says he did not authorize the putting in of the steps, though he has received a bill for the same. The bill amounts to about $37 and seems really too small a bill to have any trouble over. It looks as if it were up to the park department to pay it.

It is by purifying the blood, strengthening the nerves and building up the system that Hood's Sarsaparilla restores the appetite and makes sleep sound and refreshing in so many cases. Get it today in the usual liquid form or in the tablets called Sarsatabs.

Mr. Twombly and Mr. Singhi Defeated—Meeting Adjourned

Town Voted No License and $50,000 for Expenses

THOMAS F. SHERIDAN, Re-elected Selectman

BURTON O. SANFORD

The annual meeting of the town of Billerica was held last Saturday and it proved to be one of the most exciting meetings held in that town for several years. Edgar E. Twombly, candidate for highway surveyor, was defeated by Harry W. Essex by a majority of over seventy votes. This was the surprise of the day as several of the citizens had said that the town was never so strongly united for one man. That the voters have appreciated the good work done by the old board of selectmen was shown by the good vote given them. Mr. Singhi, the other candidate, being defeated. William H. O'Brien was easily elected to the position of tree warden.

IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR FALLEN MEMBERS OF LOCAL GREEK REGIMENT

THE HOLY GREEK REGIMENT ALL THE MEMBERS OF WHICH WENT TO FIGHT FOR FATHERLAND

The Greek Orthodox church in Jefferson street was crowded to its doors yesterday forenoon, the occasion being a memorial service for the fallen members of the Holy Greek Regiment. The service was conducted by the pastor of the parish, Rev. George H. Demetriou, D. D., while a brief eulogy was delivered by Dr. Demosthenes Generalis. The service was held immediately after the parish mass, at 11 o'clock. The interior of the temple was heavily draped in black. The candles held in the large knots of black cloth, with the chief mourners also wore bits of black on their sleeves. A memorial altar, which bore on its top the white and light blue silk flag of the Holy Greek Regiment, was erected, and in the center of this was a representation of St. George slaying the dragon, bearing a circular emblem with the letters "L. L." which stands for "Lion of Lechos," or Greek Phalanx. Streamers of white and blue were attached to the circular emblem, these holding the following statements: "The Holy Regiment to our Brethren and to all Greeks to Bravely Die Death," and "Greek Soldiers Who Bravely Fell." A miniature catafalque was placed in the center of the church and was surrounded by the members of the Holy Greek Regiment, in their full military regalia and carrying rifles. Among the others attending the service were the members of the Holy Regiment, the directors of the Pan-Hellenic Union, the four local Greek doctors, and others.

Rev. C. H. Demetriou, D. D., pastor, opened the service with a brief history of the Holy Regiment, which was started in Lowell by himself, and paid tribute to its members who have died on the battlefield. He also said a few words relative to the trouble in Europe, and concluded by reading the following poem sent him by John Iouliatos, a member of the Holy Regiment, who was wounded on the field of Bitana. The translation is as follows: "Father, you have asked me how I am, With the freezing cold of Bitana I shall die. I fear no guns nor bullets of the enemy. But I dread the rain and snow of Bitana. Sing a mass for me to the Virgin. Burn a Holy Thursday candle for me. And thus have the Virgin make a miracle. A miracle which shall bring summer quicker. So that the warm sun shall shine once again. And that miracle will make me weep with delight. And I would, father, that I should next write you from Within the walls of Janina."

The next speaker was Dr. Demosthenes Generalis, who spoke at length on the Holy Regiment and its brave members. Those of the local regiment who have lost their lives are as follows: Lieut. John Perdikis, Apostolos Pappasoulou, Peter Diamantis, Basil Courbousis. Next Sunday another memorial service will be held in honor of the late King George, and the members of the municipal council as well as other prominent men of the city will attend.

Merrimack Square Theatre. Commencing with this afternoon's matinee and at all performances this week the Merrimack Square theatre will show for the first time in Lowell the marvelous Talking Moving Pictures. These pictures have, absolutely realistic in action, are clear in photography and distinct in sound. Whether they are not as good or better than others which may be on exhibition remains for the buying public alone to determine.

So it is with the Merrimack Square Theatre. The Talking Pictures are here. They were brought to this theatre last week, and experts immediately went to work on them. They will be shown at all performances starting today, and whether they are good or bad remains for the Lowell theatre-going public to determine. There will be no advance in prices. The Talking Moving Pictures will be shown by one of the greatest vaudeville bills ever presented in Lowell. There is not an act which could not be called a headliner. All the offerings this week are lighthouses. Grace Young and company of players will present for the first time here a one-act dramatic classic called "The One Woman." This is one of those sketches which besides having a plausible story, finish, acted, allows her to wear some of her newest gowns, which will no doubt be fully appreciated by at least the feminine portion of the audience. Madison and Goldie, the harmonist and the singer, will give a combination of instrumental music and song. Curtis & Colby a pair of cyclone wonders will have on display a startling cycle act and Veolette & Old, will present their latest success "The Ethel Monroe, the society entertainer comes to us fresh from New York triumphs and among the photo-plays will be the great old done film, "An Adventure Along the Mexican Frontier." Performances are continuous from 1 to 10:30. Seats now.

KILLS WIFE ON WAY FROM CHURCH

W. A. McDonald Slashes Woman's Throat With Razor in Presence of Children

BOSTON, March 24.—With his own son vainly striving to fight him off, and within sight of scores of persons, William A. McDonald, 38 years old, employed as a stevedore in Boston, slashed the throat of his wife, Margaret E. McDonald, also 38 years old, on Broadway, Arlington, yesterday morning. A jagged razor wound, extending from ear to ear and severing both jugular veins, caused almost instant death.

Coolly and deliberately premeditating the act, as he later told the police, McDonald lay in wait for his wife, three small children and his niece, as they were returning from church. Without an exchange of words, he stepped up to her, knocked her to the sidewalk, and as she rose whipped out the razor and slashed her across the throat.

William, his 15-year-old son, sought to stay his father's hand, but he lacked the strength to tear the weapon from him. In his attempt his hand was severely cut.

McDonald started to run the moment he accomplished his purpose, apparently with the intention of making away with himself in a secluded spot. He was overtaken, however, by James J. Kenna, a neighbor of the family, who, with the assistance of Thomas Haley, caretaker of the Rawson stables nearby, managed to hold him until the police arrived.

He was arraigned this morning in the Cambridge court, charged with murder in the first degree. The Arlington police declare he is perfectly sane, and was not intoxicated.

"She was a good wife and mother, but I wanted to get rid of her and I did," this was the only explanation he gave the police of his shocking act.

Seized Two Years
The tragedy, which shocked the whole lower part of Arlington, where McDonald and his wife were well known, occurred shortly after 8 o'clock, at a time when many persons were on the streets on their way to and from the Easter masses at St. Agnes' church. The victim and the children were returning from the 7 o'clock mass.

At the time of the tragedy a Boston Elevated car, inbound from Arlington center to Sullivan square, was passing. The motorman brought the car to a stop and passengers and crew rushed out. Some of the men ran towards the spot where Kenna and Haley were subduing the murderer. In a very few minutes the street was thronged.

McDonald and his wife had not lived together since February, 1911. He left home at that time, after frequent quarrels, and has since lived at 32 Stanford street, Boston. He had seen his wife at intervals since. Several times when he tried to gain entrance to the McDonald home at 65 Broadway, his wife had caused him to be arrested. Once she had him arrested for assault and battery and he served a short jail sentence for the affair.

About a month ago McDonald wrote to his wife and asked for permission to come and see his children. Mrs. McDonald refused the request. A week ago yesterday, according to neighbors, he visited Arlington and spent the greater part of the day on Broadway. He did not go near the house, but was apparently waiting about in the hope that he might get a glimpse of the children.

Lies in Wait for Wife
Yesterday morning, just before 8 o'clock, he made his appearance at the home of Edson Kimball, 123 Broadway, about half way between the McDonald home and the corner of Tufts street, where the murder occurred. He told Mr. Kimball that he was waiting for his wife. Mr. Kimball said that he smelled liquor on his breath, but that he was in no way incited.

From the front of the Kimball home he could see far up Broadway, and when his wife, three children and niece came in sight he started toward them. Clad in overalls and jumper, his working clothes, his children did not recognize him until he neared them.

Without a moment's warning, he stepped up to his wife and struck her on the face. She fell to the sidewalk, and as she picked herself up McDonald pulled the razor from his pocket. He seized her about the throat and bent her back.

Little William, realizing then for the first time his father's intent, leaped into the air to clutch the razor. His hand closed about the blade, but the man wrenched it from him, and as the boy fell back he drew it across his wife's throat. Still clutching the razor in his hand, he started across the street.

Kenna, who lives at 123 Broadway, saw the man strike down the woman just as he was passing the Kimball home. He noticed two Italians on the opposite side of the street, and thinking the assailant one of their party, ran toward the scene. Just as he neared it he saw the razor flash in the sunlight and the woman fall.

Murderer Captured
He darted across the street and caught the murderer as the latter turned up Tufts street, running toward Massachusetts avenue. McDonald is big and powerful, and several inches taller than Kenna, but the latter grappled with him and managed to throw him. Haley, who had been attracted from the stables, assisted in subduing him.

Hurry calls were sent for the police and doctors. When Dr. Daniel J. Buckley arrived, however, the woman was dead. Dr. Harold E. Welch, the town physician, arrived soon afterward. After Medical Examiner Swan had viewed the body it was removed to Hartwell's mortuary, 100 rooms on Medford street.

Sgt. John Duffy of the police department took McDonald in charge. In his cell at the Arlington police station McDonald talked freely and told Chief Uprecht that he fully realized the enormity of his crime. He had intended to take his own life and had started toward Tufts street for that purpose.

The McDonald family has lived in Arlington about a dozen years and up to a few years ago the domestic life of the husband and wife had been apparently happy. Three years ago Marion, a 14-year-old daughter, died very suddenly, and following her death McDonald began drinking heavily. Frequent quarrels terminated in his leaving home.

Children's Grief
Neighbors of the family declared that Mrs. McDonald feared her husband, as did the children, but Mary, the 12-year-old daughter and eldest of the family, declared that she never believed he would take her mother's life. The grief of the three children, and of Marion Lunnery, 11-year-old niece of the slain woman, was pitiful to behold.

William, who had frantically sought to save his mother's life, knelt by her side while the doctors were on their way and pleaded with her to return to life. "Speak to me, speak to me, mother," he cried, unable to realize that the lips which he smothered with kisses would never speak again. Joseph, the 10-year-old "baby" of the family, could hardly realize the extent of the tragedy.

The children, their clothes spattered by their mother's blood, were taken into the Kimball home. Later they went to their own home, where Mary immediately started to comfort the younger children. So great was the shock that tears refused to come to her own eyes. Late in the afternoon

BAD BREATH

It's Your Duty to Get at the Cause and Remove it. A Word to the Wise, You Know.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, oil the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system of impurities.

They do all that dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after-effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Olive Tablets without griping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

Take one every night for a week and note the effect.

Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own. 10c and 25c per box.

she broke down and a doctor's care was necessary.

No arrangements for the funeral had been made up to a late hour last night. The dead woman was a regular attendant at St. Agnes' church. At the early mass yesterday, with the four children she received holy communion. Little William was to return for the solemn high mass and sing in the newly organized sanctuary choir.

Kenna's Story of the Crime
James J. Kenna, who braved personal danger to capture the murderer, told the following story to a reporter:

"I was on my way to church, and when I was passing Kimball's house I saw the man step up to Mrs. McDonald and knock her down. I did not recognize him in his working clothes, but, thinking him one of a party of Italians across the street, I started to run toward him."

"Just as I neared them I saw the razor flash through the air and Mrs. McDonald fell. I started across the street, but I managed to catch him. He put up a terrific fight and tried to wrench the hand containing the razor free. Fearing that he would use the weapon on me, if he got it free, I struggled and managed to hold him until Mr. Haley arrived."

SATURDAY'S PARADE

Arrangements Are Now Practically Complete

The big day for the Irish Catholic societies is fast approaching and nearly everything is in readiness for the parade in honor of St. Patrick which will take place on next Saturday and to which the members of the various Catholic organizations throughout the city will turn out in large numbers to celebrate the feast of the patron saint of Ireland.

Tonight the final session of the committee in general charge of all the arrangements will be held in the hall when the sub-committees and officers will complete the final details of the arrangements which have been progressing under the direction of Chief Marshal James McManion, and his assistants who have labored hard for the success of the event. The parade should be the largest and grandest of its kind ever witnessed here.

According to reports made yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Central council of the A. O. H. there will be more than 2000 out of town members of the Hibernian organization here next Saturday to take part in the parade. They will represent divisions of the order from Manchester, Andover, Lawrence, Nashua, Woburn and other cities and towns.

President P. J. Mahoney who presided yesterday, appointed a committee to provide hospitality for the visitors and to make the necessary arrangements for the accommodation of all. It is expected that State President Patrick F. Cannon and State Vice President John F. Donnelly of Cambridge will come to Lowell to take part in the procession.

A meeting of Chief Marshal McManion and his staff was held yesterday afternoon at which he issued directions as to the details of uniform, adornment and the general order which are theirs to perform on next Saturday.

The places of assembly of the various divisions of the Hibernian order in this city will be as follows: Div. 1, Carpenters' hall, Runnels building; Div. 2, Elks hall, Middle street; Div. 3, Street Railway Men's hall, Runnels building; Div. 4, Cotton Spinners' hall, 22 Middle street; Div. 5, Weavers' hall, 32 Middle street.

Decorations Along Route.
The route of the parade although already published, is inserted here again by request.

Starting from Willie street the course will be through the following streets: Broadway, Suffolk, Merrimack, Central, Corham, to Davis square, Back Central, Church, High, Barlett, Fayette, East Merrimack to Bridge, Bridge to Seventh, counter-march to Merrimack and John street.

The parade will be reviewed by Rt. Rev. Bishop Anderson and other clergymen at St. Patrick's rectory and by the city government and visiting officials on a special grandstand at city hall.

Already Decorator Young is busy putting up bunting along the route and even some distance from the route so that a fine display is assured.

The Manchester Delegation
Appropos of the forthcoming parade, the Manchester, N. H. correspondent to the Boston Globe says:

"It is anticipated that Manchester will be represented by nearly 1000 men in the A. O. H. parade to be held in Lowell, March 29. Arrangements have been completed for the trip by the Manchester delegation, which will go by special train. The Manchester contingent will include, in addition to the divisions of Hibernians, K. of C., the Irish Foresters and the Sheridan and Emmet Guards of the 1st Regiment, N. H. G. G."

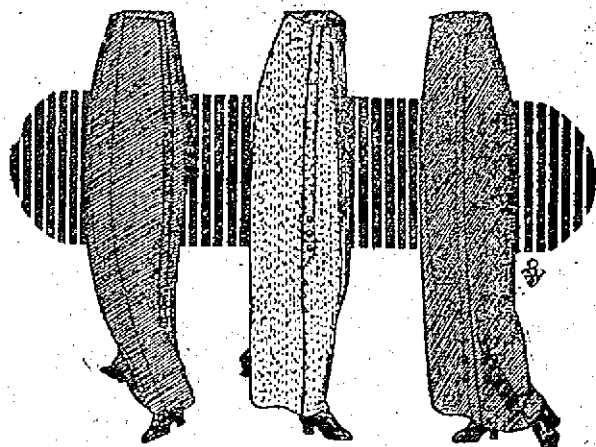

The parade will be the largest held in Lowell for a number of years and will include delegations from many of the New England cities, including military organizations.

THE CUP RACE

The general opinion of the press seems to be that the New York Yacht club is not dealing with the challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton in the true spirit of sportsmanship which he has always shown, and shows in the present instance, towards us. Instead of treating of the main issue, which is the development of our sailing craft as compared with that of England, the New York club has raised questions of technicalities concerning the proper interpretation of the deed of gift by which that club became the custodian of the famous trophy. In answer to the original challenge of Sir Thomas this technical question was raised, and that there might be no misunderstanding he has striven to meet the difficulties named in the American rejection of his challenge in a straightforward, honest manner. His answer ought to convince all sport-loving Americans that the titled challenger does not wish to take advantage of any clause or veiled allusion in original agreements, but wishes instead a yacht race that will be as fair a test of superiority in boat building and racing as that in which the "America" triumphed half a century ago.

For the sake of the sport of yacht racing in itself, and in a greater degree, for the sake of our fair name, the New York Yacht club ought to drop its attitude of suspicion and deal openly with the slight difficulties which at present prevent the international contest. It certainly was not the intention of those who favored the deed of gift which gave that club the guardianship of the much contested cup that no attempts were ever to be made by England to win it back. We ought to feel that the spirit of our sportmen of the past was far above such petty dealings, and we hope that the attitude of our sportsmen of today will stand as searching a test. Thus far the New York Yacht club has not manifested the least desire for a race. Why this attitude of indifference is shown is not easily understood, as in the past America demonstrated our superiority in yacht racing beyond the shadow of a doubt, and our enterprise has not been at a standstill. It cannot be that they fear a test, keeping this in mind, for even if there was any ground for fear, there would be far more cause for national pride in a gallantly fought contest against a gallant foe, even though we were the losers, than by a retention of the cup based on a small and selfish interpretation of existing regulations.

A NEW PARK SUPERINTENDENT

The suggestions of Judge Pickman regarding a new park superintendent to succeed Charles A. Whitcomb, are very much to the point, outlining as they do the important duties of the office, its growing importance, and the qualities that fit a man for the position. Some of our parks are in the first stages of development and their future possibilities will depend in a great measure on the knowledge and administrative qualities of the new superintendent. In some measures he must be a landscape gardener, a nature lover, and a botanist. To be a success, not only must he appreciate the beauties of lawn, of shrub and flower, but he must be acquainted with their climatic conditions as they affect vegetation, the various pests that menace vegetable growth in this region, and the measures that prevent their ravages. Besides this, he must be a man of active and executive temperament as on him will depend the laying out of work, the handling of men, the keeping track of costs, and all the practical details of the work of preserving and developing the parks, both old and new. At the same time he must keep within the appropriation, and this may be one his greatest difficulties if we are to judge from the experience of the past few years.

The question of city parks is one that is receiving much attention in all the principal cities of the country. To secure the best service Boston has just organized a new department to be known as "The park and recreation department." It is being recognized that parks, besides being of the utmost advantage to the people of a city, offer one of the most attractive advertisements of which a city can boast. Who can think of Boston without its common or its public gardens, or of New York without its Central park and its Conny Island? The philanthropy of individuals has given Lowell some beautiful parks which, when fully developed, will compare with the best in this section of the country. It will be a future incentive to the public mind of Lowell to follow the lofty example of the Rogers family, Mr. Shedd, and our other benefactors, if the city shows its appreciation by doing all in its power to make our public parks and recreation grounds the influence for education and enjoyment for which they were intended. To do this adequately it is very necessary that the park superintendent be a man of knowledge and progressiveness, and that the park board should act with great care and deliberation in naming Mr. Whitcomb's successor.

A SALUTARY CALM

Congressman Underwood has asked the people of the country to abstain from hasty judgments on the proposed tariff changes until the government is ready to make official announcement of its recommendations. In explanation of his request he says that the tariff forecasts which have come to his knowledge from outside sources have been entirely wrong in most cases, and he deprecates the feverish haste in adverse criticism that might be prejudicial to the best interests of the new administration. In view of the fact that the government has declared its determination to restore rather than to destroy, and the general air of security that prevails in business circles, his request is not unreasonable. The special session is near, the ground has been well prepared, and we may confidently suspend judgment until the final schedules are announced.

Another notable example of a request for calm judgment is the recent address of Governor Ralston of Indiana, who in his inaugural address said, "While I was nominated for governor as a party man and elected as such, and am with pride still a democrat without apology, I do not fail to recognize in the hour of triumph that the noise and prejudice of a campaign have been succeeded by the calm so essential to good neighborhood and public welfare."

It is certainly to be much desired that the "noise and prejudice of a campaign" should have ceased with the coming to power of a new president representing an old party but one that has long been a stranger to success. Now as never before measures of national reform take on a strictly business aspect, and the president and democratic leaders have thus far acted with a sense of justice and with great prudence. They have requested the support and the assistance of all the people, and that their work may be wholly effective, the "necessary calm" would seem to be the proper attitude, at least until the proposed legislation is more clearly defined.

EASTER

The sorrow and gloom of Lent are over, and with all its wealth of beautiful symbolism the church has celebrated the resurrection of Christ, the victory over death, the hope of immortality. The purple pall of mourning has been removed, and the new era of hope and happiness has been ushered in with the sound of triumphant music, the jubilation peals of bells, and the staidness of Easter lilies. Not only in a spiritual sense but in a material do we see this birth of a new life. The Easter spirit is indeed abroad. Spring warmth has tempered the keen breeze, there is a shrill twittering among the birds, the dried branches have felt the revivifying sap in their veins and are bursting forth in tiny shoots of green.

The spiritual and natural significance of the Easter tide pleads for recognition in the hearts of mankind. In all its Christian beauty, it whispers to us a message of resignation and of hope. Amid the toils and cares of existence there is many a period of darkness and of Lent. The walks of life take us through many a path in the Valley of shadows. But at the end of all is a glorious promise. After the gloom and shadow of the road shall fall the rapture of the Easter, the songs of triumph, the perfume of the flowers. Let us lift up our hearts and be glad for the message of Easter has not been in vain.

PROPOSED OAKLAND FENWAY

Nothing calls forth readier response and signs of appreciation from the Lowell public than the announcement of new parks and pleasure grounds in any section of the city which does not possess as many as are necessary for the health and pleasure of our population. It is, therefore, to be hoped that the optimism of the Oakland improvement association will be justified regarding the new fenway for which they are striving, and which seems already fairly well assured. The Oakland is one of the foremost residential districts of our city, and although little has been yet done in the laying out of its walks and spaces, Nature has given it a wealth of hill and valley that a very slight expenditure could convert into a scene of rare beauty. As the land in the immediate vicinity of the proposed fenway is almost entirely undeveloped, and as such a scheme as is suggested would be to the benefit of the city and the owner of the property, there is no reason why the mutual good of all should not draw the interested parties closer together, and result in a little park that would bid fair to be one of the most beautiful in our growing park system. The fact that the land is to be donated for this special purpose makes the fenway park scheme one to be doubly commended.

JUMPING FREIGHTS

Jumping freights here or anywhere else is dangerous business. First of all it has dangers arising solely from the conditions under which the "passenger" rides. It may be over a bunter that is liable to throw him off; it may be in the running gear under the car or on top which is practically as perilous. But the danger of being caught and either shot or compelled to jump is another grave aspect that is seldom seriously considered by the freight jumper. Police and detectives usually regard freight jumpers as desperadoes who fear arrest if they ride on a passenger train. That is why no boy or man who does not wish to be so classed should be a freight jumper.

Many young men of Lowell seem to have taken up shady methods of making money. They had better drop the business although they may succeed for a time in escaping detection. Very few of them, however, escape very long in these parts. The local police are great on picking the crooks from a crowd.

Now is the time for the board of health to force the spring cleaning of back yards, lanes and alleys. Some of the streets are also in a condition that demands not only the attention of the street commissioner but also of the board of health.

Then say Love brought grand largesse, His very cottage door, A man of mystery and charm, God never could be so dumb, And he laid out dumb hands of hope.

To the mighty fires of Peace, Till the neighbor passed with tongue in cheek, And then he sought release.

And then he sought release, "You are too dull," the neighbor said, "To share my such as she, 'Find you a girl of common clay to wed, and be like me!'"

So time sped by, till the fading day "Could bring but one last chance To break the bonds of a sordid life And round circumstance."

And, well nigh spent, he sought the road, To the heights where life is great, Fearing no more shilling gain, But his neighbor whispered, "Wait—'You are too old to do it now—it is far too late,' said he."

"You are too old to do it now—it is far too late," said he, "I know, and you are just like me!"—Marguerite O. B. Wilkinson, in Lincoln's.

TRANSMUTED

I dreamed of light, And then in the heart of the night, Your face came to me clear, like a star, Out of a dreamy haze.

My heart—its dreams a-baking, My love—and its aching, Went up to you through the night, And you were the Light.

I dreamed of rest; And straightway, magical, best— Your heart was laid like a kiss on my heart.

And hushed the smart, My striving—and sobbing, My burning—and sobbing, All stilled by a touch, unguessed! And you were my Rest.

I dreamed of song; In the night hours long Your heart from far away did speak To mine.

In cadences divine, Music of smiles and of weeping, Hummed with wild and true— And the Song was I.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Change of Policy

Foster's Democrat: At last the Boston Chamber of Commerce is waking up. The knocking the railroads and "boast" will be its slogan from now on. And they can't begin the boasting a bit soon. It is about time for the New England legislature to begin to engage in the boosting business instead of fighting the Boston & Maine.

The Fighting Race

Fall River Globe: It is interesting and curious, remarks a contemporary, that while most nations honor Ireland as their chief patrons, Ireland has a record for honor for the most select a man of peace to set upon. The leading pedestal of fame, St. Patrick's principal glory was in founding 365 churches and planting a school in each. Such an apostle of civilization deserves his annual holiday more than do the great captains who achieved distinction by human slaughter.

Inspiration

Brooklyn Times: Instead of abandoning the picture of Theodore Roosevelt which hangs on the wall of the executive office in Washington, Prof. Taft has sent for it, asking that it be shipped to New Haven. Perhaps it will come in handy as inspiration for some of the forthcoming lectures on the constitution.

The Bryan "Break"

Worcester Call: It was what Mr. Bryan is rather than what he said that gives offense. The sentiment he uttered is nearly universal in the United States. The British government does not justly fear that there is much sympathy here for some rule in Ireland, it is shared by descendants of other people than the Irish. Mr. Bryan was well known by the British to have been all a sympathizer with Irish politics. There are many Britons who think precisely as he does about it.

In the meantime President Wilson is said to be disturbed not at all by the existing criticism of his secretary of state. Mr. Wilson is a good judge, we take it, of the value of such disturbances.

The Chinese Loan

New Bedford Times: The action of President Wilson in declining to request American bankers of the alleged Chinese loan is a time when it was generally believed, in Europe at least, that the transaction was about to be completed, has created surprise and disapproval on this side of the form of dollar diplomacy and his atti-

A Party Leader
Lynn Item: The president does not intend to fall into the error of his predecessor, who made no attempt to become the leader of his party, so far as any publication of such a purpose went. Mr. Wilson assumes party leadership with all that the name signifies. He will go frequently to the capitol to consult with members of congress. It has always been his theory of government by party that the president was elected to be the leader, and he particularly was charged by the people with the duty of carrying out of party pledges. He believes the tariff should be treated as a party measure, and after the leaders have approved the tariff bill he will make every effort to secure its passage in both houses, without material alteration.

Playing Marbles
Manchester Mirror: Before the painted red man had placed his foot on Manhattan island, in the days when London was a city of marbles, the Egyptian and Roman kids used to squabble about their laws and alleges, as do the boys playing marbles on sander concrete. In any good archaological museum you can find old Indian boys dating back to these heavy old days. There is nothing new under the sun.

Echoes From Mexico
Worcester Post: More testimony that the late President Madero of Mexico was cold-bloodedly murdered is brought to San Francisco by Col. Manuel Brancha Alcala, publisher of the New Era, a Mexico City paper. He says that he can prove that instead of being killed in a fight with a rescue party on the way to prison, Madero was shot from behind in the palace the powder burning his neck, and that the deposed vice-president, Suarez, was a stranger to the neck showing the marks, and their bodies then taken by automobile some hours later to the point where the alleged fracas occurred. He says the crime was committed between 3 and 3.30 o'clock, February 22, and a most serious allegation—that the news was in Washington before the time of the killing, according to the "official story."

EDUCATION NOTES

The movement for vocational education in this country is now in full swing. Six states already have more or less complete systems of vocational training, and a number of others are considering legislation to introduce into the public schools work that will fit boys and girls more directly for earning a living. In order to aid in the movement the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education has issued a brief, explicit statement of what it considers the main principles that should underlie the proposed legislation, and the United States bureau of education, while not giving official endorsement to the program as a whole, is sending copies of the pamphlet to those who apply for it.

What are the essentials of a state system of practical education? The society's circular endeavors to answer this question. In a few short, non-technical paragraphs, it sums up certain of the fundamental policies of vocational education as this society sees it. It urges state aid to the local communities. It recognizes four fields of vocational training as the kind the state ought to furnish its boys and girls: Industrial education for workers in the trades and industries and in the household; agricultural education for farmers; commercial education for clerks, salesmen, etc.; and "household arts education" for non-wage-earning occupations connected with the home. In other words, the state ought to make it possible for children to get the kind of public schools instruction that will fit them directly for productive employment in any of these useful occupations. Instead of sending them out with little or no training for the real work they are going to do.

Experience has already been sufficient to indicate in what kind of schools this vocational training can be given. The circular cites a number of types of schools, some based on European models, others on American practice, among them the following: The all-day vocational schools, where the pupils can spend at least one year in all-day attendance; the part-time schools, where boys and girls regularly employed may come for a few hours each week; the evening schools in industry or agriculture, for persons over 16 years of age who work during the day; and similar evening schools or classes in household arts.

It is significant that the six states that have already set up systems of vocational education—Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Wisconsin and Indiana—have long had excellent schools. The newer education which they are introducing is not intended to replace the old but to supplement it; to give training for a specific employment in addition to the regular schooling, so that the boys and girls may be more efficient and willing workers, as well as better educated individuals.

SERIOUS AUTO ACCIDENT

Little Fred Frawley Was Nearly Killed

Another serious automobile accident occurred yesterday morning in Central street in which Frederick Frawley, 10-year-old son of Wagon Officer Patrick Frawley of the local police department, was struck and badly injured by the machine of Henry Bros., driven by John Henry. Another lad, Frank Hekey, cousin of the injured boy, narrowly escaped being a victim of the auto crash when also, throwing him to the street and inflicting minor injuries. The young Frawley boy is now at St. John's hospital suffering with several broken ribs and a fracture of the right leg above the ankle, in addition to several cuts and bruises. The authorities at the hospital state that his recovery is expected.

The two boys, it is said, started to cross the street and did not notice the automobile which was proceeding down Central street. It is thought that the driver did not see the boys until too late to avoid the accident, which occurred near Burd street. The forward end of the machine struck Frederick Frawley, while Hekey was thrown to one side, not receiving the full impact of the machine. Frawley was dragged a short distance before the machine could be brought to a stop. The ambulance appeared on the spot a few moments later in response to a hurry call and the victim was conveyed to St. John's hospital. Everything possible was done for him and today he was reported to be resting as comfortably as could be expected, and with the chances decidedly in favor of his recovery.

"Shorty" Dee is of the opinion that the advent of Frank Leonard into St. Croix valley baseball will put our national game on a firm basis down that way. The fast little shortstop played with St. Stephens, N. B., two years ago and under the baseball situation in the Province thoroughly. If the proposed new league is admitted into organized baseball, St. Stephens with its Fredrickson team ought to be heard from.

Four more records were smashed at the handball games in Dartmouth gymnasium Saturday. This gym is the largest in the world and boasts of a 120 yard eluder straightaway. Marc Wright, captain of the Green team, put a new record in his event, vaulting the bar at 12 ft. 8 1/4 in. The world record holder seems to be better this year than ever with the taped bamboo. Olsen's performance in the 300 yard dash was also noteworthy. The fleet Hanover flyer doing the distance in 23.5 seconds.

Eddie Cawley, the star third baseman of the High school team, has been offered a contract by Bob Ganley to play with Fredrickson, N. B., this year. The versatile schoolboy athlete has turned it down, however, as he wants to retain his amateur standing so as to be able to engage in college athletics. Here is a boy who has a big athletic future open to him in most any branch that he cares to specialize in. He is equally proficient in baseball, track and football.

The plans for the new baseball stands have been changed over from the original specifications. Instead of the former 60 ft. space between the grandstand and the field, the occupying reserved seats will be within 10 feet of the batter. Huggins Jennings, McGraw and several other authorities on the game have been agitating the move for the two past seasons and the change is sure to meet with the unanimous approval of the fans. A much better view of all close plays can be had with the stands only 60 feet away from the diamond.

Whether or no the Red Sox will win this year's American league pennant depends entirely on how Heinie Wagner's arm holds out, according to Magistrate McAleer. Last season it was tacitly agreed that the season's results in the cumber where the standings of the teams are tabulated would rest almost wholly with the condition of the great shortstop's arm. He has not been allowed to take part in any of the strenuous workouts as yet, as Jake Stahl is afraid that he will again wrench his shoulder. Wagner is now nearly 30 years of age and his muscles have not got the reflex power that they had 10 years ago.

The entire Fall River basketball team was arrested Saturday at Rockland, Me., on a charge of attempted larceny. It seems that the team did not meet with a friendly reception on their visit to the Maine seaport town and did not feel called upon to pay their board bill. The proprietor of the hotel where they were staying straightaway had warrants served on the various members of the team. They will appear in the Lewiston court tomorrow morning to answer to the charge.

When Meredith, the Pennsylvania crack cracker, was in Dartmouth relay team, Ralph and Young of the B. A. A. and Howe of Boston English high meet in their special 140 yard race in Brooklyn on next Wednesday evening there should be the greatest quarter mile run of the season. All of these men are capable of taking the full distance under fifty seconds and, in all probability, a new record will be set for the track.

Jimmy Gardner started in Saturday with light training. He has not got any particular light in mind, but wants to see how strong his recent sickness has left him. In his initial workout he covered over two miles at a slow jog and looked as fresh as a daisy when he showed up for his shower. If Jimmy can only get back the quickness and surety of action that have always characterized his boxing the welter and middleweight claimants will all sit up straight and take notice.

What John Paul Jones and Abel Kiviat will do to the mile record next summer when they meet in being discussed now with great fervor among the sporting fraternity. The Irish-American runner is taking a much needed layoff just now and has wisely decided to quit the game until summer comes around. On the other hand Jones is running in great form just at present, his mark of 4:19.5-5 at the mile last Saturday being remarkable when the condition of the track he ran on is considered. The meeting between these two will draw a large audience.

Sailor Fluke and Jimmy Riordan will meet again at the Lowell Social and Athletic club on Friday night. Although Riordan was awarded the title over Fluke in their first encounter, the boy from the Navy put the Lowell boxer away in their second bout. There was not a slow minute during the entire duration of both fights and this bout is sure to attract a great many members to this week's meeting.

INSPIRING MUSICAL PROGRAMS

Were Rendered in the Catholic Churches Yesterday in Honor of the Easter Festival

In all the Catholic churches yesterday the Easter festival was elaborately observed with inspiring musical programs and discourses upon the "Risen Christ."

St. Patrick's Very elaborate were the services in observance of Easter Sunday at St. Patrick's church yesterday morning and all the services were attended by large congregations. Rev. Joseph A. Curtin was the celebrant of the solemn high mass at eleven o'clock and he was assisted by Rev. Father Callahan as deacon and Rev. Father Kerigan as sub-deacon. Rev. Father William O'Brien was present at the service.

The preacher of the day was Rev. Fr. Callahan and he dwelt especially on the significance of Easter and the resurrection of Christ as interpreted by the Catholic church and the faithful. The singing of the regular choir and of the sanctuary choir was a beautiful feature and the program of music was carried out in a masterly way. The soloists were excellent. The sanctuary choir alternated with the main choir in the singing of the Psalms and hymns and Mr. James King was chorister of the Grail.

In the evening the vested choir sang the choir alternated in the singing of the psalms of solemnity. A quartet composed of Miss Teresa Slattery, soprano; Miss Helen O'Sullivan, contralto; Mr. John Keegan, tenor and Mr. Edward Slattery, Jr., bass, rendered "Hae Diles." Mr. Michael Johnson, organist and director of the choir prepared the music for the occasion and it was under his capable direction that the program was carried out so well.

The church itself was tastefully decorated for the occasion and presented a very beautiful appearance. It was announced that a two weeks' mission conducted by the Jesuit Fathers will open next Sunday. The music of the church was highly enjoyed yesterday. The air was clear and the joyous rendition of the hymns of the day in the forenoon and again before the hour for vespers was heard over the greater part of the city.

St. Peter's Impressive were the Easter Sunday services at St. Peter's church yesterday morning and last evening and all masses were attended by very large congregations. The masses were celebrated at the usual hours while that at 11 o'clock was a solemn high mass. The celebrant of the latter was Rev. W. George Mullin, with Rev. Dr. J. Keleher as deacon and Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan as sub-deacon.

The 11 o'clock service opened with a procession of the clergy, altar boys and vested choir, who proceeded down the center aisle of the beautiful church to the sanctuary in this procession the boys' choir sang hymns and psalms appropriate to Easter.

Rev. Dr. J. Keleher, pastor of St. Peter's spoke at all the masses and at the solemn high mass preached a sermon, setting forth the Catholic conception of the resurrection. At the opening he dwelt on the meaning of the Lenten season, of the sufferings of Christ the savior, who chose of His own free will to endure the innumerable torments at the hands of unbelievers, even to death on the cross that the faith might be saved. Lent and particularly Holy week is the season of mourning in the Catholic church for the God who suffered for men. Now, after a period of deep sorrow, the church rejoices for Christ has risen. "He has risen; He has risen," was the chant of the angels, 2000 years ago on the first Easter. "The chant of the sanctuary choir in the procession which preceded the beginning of this mass," said the speaker, "impressed me deeply, for they, too, in their beautiful hymns told of the rising of the Saviour as did the angels years ago."

Rev. Father Keleher dwelt on the importance of the resurrection as the foundation of our faith, and as the safeguard and protection of the Catholic church instituted directly by God himself. It is from the sacrifice of Christ on behalf of mankind that His faithful followers, too, shall rise again after death to a new life everlasting. It was announced at all the masses that a four week's mission, conducted by the Redemptorist Fathers will open at St. Peter's church on next Sunday. Separate weeks will be devoted to the married women, and the single women, and to the married and single men. By this classification, the pastor is of the opinion that the mission will be confined to the main church and that the chapel need not be brought into use on this occasion.

The singing of the vested choir at the solemn high mass and the evening services yesterday was a brilliant feature and reflected great credit upon Rev. Fr. Burns who by his untiring efforts brought this musical body up to the very highest standard which it has maintained.

Immaculate Conception Church At the Immaculate Conception church the Easter festival was observed with impressive services. The altars were appropriately decorated, the main altar being aglow with lighted tapers, while the Easter lily was prominent in the floral decorations. All the services were attended by large congregations. At the parish mass at 11 o'clock the sanctuary choir led the procession into the sanctuary, singing the hymn "O Filii Dei" in English. It also sang a hymn at the close of mass. Rev. Owen McQuaid, O. M. I., was celebrant of the mass with Rev. Brother James McCarthy, O. M. I., of Tewksbury and Rev. Edward Fox, O. M. I., as deacon and sub-deacon. The pastor, Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I., after making the announcements preached a brief sermon on the gospel of the day, the lesson it bears to all Catholics and the reason for rejoicing at this triumph over the forces of evil. The resurrection, he said, carries to each one the promise of eternal life dependent upon compliance with God's law. The choir, directed by Mr. Joseph P. Courtney and Mrs. Hugh Walker, organist, sang McEvoy's Gaudian Angel mass and Bordon's "Veni Domine Ihs Christe" at the offertory. The recessional by the choir was "O Wonderful Easter Morning," with Master Hugh Downing, Jr., the soloist.

At solemn vespers at 6.30 o'clock in the evening there was another large congregation in attendance and the musical program was admirably rendered.

Sacred Heart Church The Church of the Sacred Heart was most beautifully adorned with lilies, flowers of various kinds and other decorations appropriate to Easter and the services were most inspiring, the music especially being a brilliant feature.

The solemn high mass at 11 o'clock was celebrated by Rev. Fr. N. McQuaid, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. P. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. William P. Haley, O. M. I., as sub-deacon. Rev. Fr. Wade Smith presided. A beautiful discourse on the resurrection, taking his text from the gospel of the day and in beautiful language explaining the importance to the church of the feast of Easter Sunday and the significance of the resurrection.

The sanctuary choir rendered a beautiful "Regina Coeli" and other hymns appropriate to the season, while the selections rendered by the main choir of the church were most beautiful, prepared under the direction of Mr. John Kelly, organist and leader of the choir.

In the evening the services consisted by Holy Hour and solemn benediction, the officiating clergymen at this ceremony being the same as in the morning. A double quartet rendered, "Unaccompanied," the "Tantum Ergo" by Lamblotte, and the effect was most pleasing.

On Thursday evening in the school hall, the members of the Children of Mary sodality will hold a social for members only. The last evening of the Holy Name society to make final arrangements of the parade on next Saturday will be held on Thursday evening.

St. Michael's The recently ordained Lowell young priest, Rev. William Keenan, of Centralville, was the celebrant of the solemn high mass at St. Michael's church yesterday morning. The assistants were Rev. Fr. Mullin as deacon and Rev. Dennis Murphy as sub-deacon. There was a magnificent attendance at the service, including many friends of Fr. Keenan from the other parishes of the city, who desired to assist in the celebration of his first solemn high mass here. He was ordained by the cardinal at Brighton seminary last Tuesday. He had received his primary and grammar education at St. Michael's school and also served on the altar for several years.

The music was under the direction of Mr. James Murphy and the singing both of the main choir and of the sanctuary choir was remarkably good. The soloists were especially commendable and they included Mr. Murphy, Mr. Thomas P. Boulger, Miss Margaret Griffin, and Miss Marie Wray Murphy. The organist was Miss Carolyn White.

The sermon of the day was an eloquent and inspiring discourse delivered by Rev. Fr. Mullin. The sermon dealt with the meaning of the Resurrection.

THOMAS TO MEET GRUPP

And Reardon to Clash With Fiske

The weekly meetings of the Lowell Social and Athletic club will be resumed Friday evening, after a week's lay-off. The club members will meet at the club house, 100 State street, at 8 o'clock, during the Holy Week season, and for "meeting night," a fine program has been arranged. The main bout will be furnished by Joe Thomas of this city and Billy Grupp of St. Louis, two clever middleweights, who are demanding the attention of the sporting writers throughout the country at the present time. Grupp is better known in the western section, owing to the fact that he has met some of the best "middle" in the wild and woolly section. Joe Thomas, is the dean of middleweights and owing to the fact that he takes excellent care of himself, he is always in condition to give a good exhibition of the manly art. He has been at the game for over fifteen years, and during that time has not a bunch of fighters and near fighters. He is clever, and can take a beating when it comes his way. His cleverness, though, has saved him many a walling, and with a little more aggressiveness, Joe would, without doubt, be the king pin among his class. Since working under Jimmy Gardner's careful and capable direction, Joe has assimilated more aggressiveness and at the rate he is going at present, Eddie McGearty, and the other champions of middleweight honors will be obliged to consider Joe, before they will have a right to the title. Grupp has been working under the tutelage of the Lowell boxer will be obliged to work carefully in his bout Friday night or his opponent will put home a carpet round, providing of course, that a sleeper is not sent over the pan. In the semi final, Jimmy Reardon and Sailor Fiske, two great rivals will exchange greetings, and two good preliminaries will complete the bill.

Long has received several letters from both the Haverhill Baseball and Athletic association and Daniel F. Clough, but he has told both that there will be nothing doing from his end of the line unless they come across with more money. He was getting into a month last season. The athletic association cut him down to $150, and Daniel F. didn't offer him any more than he got last season at least.

Pitcher Frank Hale, for two seasons with the Worcester club of the New England league, has been purchased by Victoria of the Northwestern league.

DIAMOND NOTES

Lester Long will not be seen in a Haverhill uniform again this coming season unless he is given an increase in salary, for he figures that if he can't get more money after a year and a half of reasoning he had better quit the game and take up civil engineering. He is a college man with a degree in engineering and is at present in charge of a construction gang in Harrison, N. Y.

The present job, which is for the city of New York, will last a year or more, and he can play independent ball and make as much as he could in professional ball. When he returned home last fall he was given a position in the office of a prominent consulting engineer, where he remained for several months before getting out into the open.

Long has received several letters from both the Haverhill Baseball and Athletic association and Daniel F. Then why should you fill your pipe with chopped-up, dried-out tobacco, that cannot keep fresh in a tin can, when you can cut your tobacco-fresh from the plug-and get a sweeter, cooler, more fragrant smoke.

Plug Tobacco means fresh tobacco, because all the natural moisture of the leaf and the genuine tobacco flavor have been pressed into the plug and kept there by a natural leaf wrapper—Nature's own protection.

Tobacco packed in tin cans or cloth bags burns fast—smokes hot—and bites your tongue. Fresh, sweet, Master Workman Plug Tobacco burns slow and smokes cool—Can't bite your tongue.

If you have been smoking dried-out granulated tobaccos—the cool, slow burning, fragrant plug of Master Workman will be a revelation to you. Try it today.

Easter day was fittingly observed in all the Protestant churches and large congregations were the order of the day. The decorations included Easter and calla lilies and an abundance of the seasonable flowers.

The evening service brought out a congregation that completely filled the church. The feature was "The Message of Light," comprising a program appropriate to Easter day and to the livingstone centenary, by Irene Mason.

Contributors to the program were: Gladys Green, Mary Overton, Earl Stevenson, Lita Clement, Elliott Roberts, Pearl Rodgers, Arthur Dows, Bert Frank, Annabel Gordon, David McCoy, Florence Laine, Elizabeth Seasham, Doris Derrington, Lita Prescott, David Brown, Warren Plimney, Arthur Hallenborg, Harold Hardy, Sumner Needham, Austin Mears, Franklin McCoy, Foster Browning, Ernest Craig, Richard Lodge, Forrest Simpson, Robert Fisher, Charles Thorpe, Winfield Aldrich, Raymond Babbalan, Livingstone Lomas.

A picture of David Livingstone was unveiled by Livingstone Lomas, a four-year-old boy whose grandfather was named after the great missionary, and who was born in Blantyre, Scotland, the birthplace of Livingstone. At the close of the service, members of the church warmly congratulated those who had the work of preparation in charge, upon the splendid success achieved. The church quartet, comprising Mrs. A. E. Duncan, Mrs. H. D. Dawson, Mr. Louis Masson and Mr. Joseph Heathcote, together with Frank B. Hill, director, also came in for expressions of appreciation.

Kirk Street Church

Manney's Easter cantata, "The Resurrection," was sung at the Kirk street church, last night, before a congregation that filled the auditorium. The regular choir was augmented by the quartet from the Unitarian church, and Mr. A. C. Spaulding, the organist.

RESINOL STOPS SKIN TORMENTS

How This Wonderful Ointment Ends Itching and Heals Eruptions

The soothing, healing medication in Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap penetrates every tiny pore of the skin, clears it of all impurities, and stops itching instantly. Resinol positively heals eczema, rashes, ringworm, and other eruptions, and clears away disgusting pimples and blackheads, when other treatments prove worse than useless.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which proved so wonderfully successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other doctors all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, but you can test them at our expense. Just write to Dept. H-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., and we will send you a generous trial by parcel post.

was assisted by Miss Laura Murphy at the piano. The cantata was effectively sung throughout. The music was a feature of both services, a large congregation being present in the morning. Rev. C. A. Lincoln preached in the morning on "The Experience of Resurrection." Mrs. W. G. Spence, the regular soprano, who has been ill, was unable to sing, and her place was taken by Mrs. H. Kirk White.

The decorations for the day included Easter lilies, which covered the entire front of the platform, against a background of palms.

First Unitarian

At the morning services in the First Unitarian church, yesterday morning, the pastor, Rev. Charles T. Billings, had for his sermon subject, the words: "Lo, I Am With You Always." The flowers were beautiful and there was special music. Among the numbers was the alto solo, "The Redeemer Lives" (Manney) sung with much beauty by Mrs. Frederick Lenney.

First Presbyterian

Well attended services were held in the First Presbyterian church yesterday, with Easter music the feature. Two choirs, the senior and the junior, blended their voices in hymns of gladness, and duet singing was contributed by Miss Edna MacAdams and Miss Florence Ramsay, with Mr. John M. Brown as musical director. At the morning service, the pastor, Rev. J. M. Craig had for his subject, "A Joyful Sunday," and at the evening service, his subject was, "No Resurrection, No Christianity." Both sermons were appropriate to the day, and of deep interest to those who heard them. The church was beautifully decorated, potted plants and Easter lilies covering the pulpit platform.

Highland Methodist

The Easter services at the Highland Methodist church were very impressive and the occasion was emphasized by beautiful flowers.

At the morning service, the pastor, Rev. Henry L. McLean, had for his subject, "The Great Mystery of the Resurrection." The Easter music was contributed by Mr. James Hainthwaite, Miss Grace M. Currier, Miss Bessie Porter, Mr. E. W. Kilpatrick, Mr. A. G. Booth and Mr. F. Timmons.

The evening concert was given by the Sunday school under the direction of Mrs. H. L. McLean, and it was much appreciated by a large congregation. Among those who contributed were: Mabel Ackley, Merton Farrell, Robert Timmons, Edna McLean, Donald Whitely, Gertrude Wade, Lona Holden, Milton Tanner, Grace Timmons, Hazel Veeman, Marjorie Hatne, Doris Smith, Hazel McLean, Fred Sturtevant, Molly Washburn, Charles Shields, Earl Cameron, Ethel Bartlett, Kenneth Cameron, Eddie Shepard, Doris Wadsworth, Elmer Petrie, Josephine Burbeck, Ethel Timmons, Elsie Petrie, Edna Wadsworth, George Shepard, Margaret McLean, Alfred Timmons, Anne Burbeck, Edith Vincent, Elizabeth Burbeck, Harold Petrie, John Huse, Elmer McLean.

St. Anne's Church

At the first service of the day at St. Anne's church the girls' auxiliary choir appeared for the first time in their vestments and sang 30 voices were heard. A girls' choir, although not new to many of the churches in the diocese, is an innovation at St. Anne's. Rev. Samuel H. Jobe, the assistant pastor was the celebrant. At the close of the service the girls sat down to breakfast in the choir room, which had been prepared through the courtesy of the rector.

The second service was at 9 a. m., when Rev. Edward Atkinson was the celebrant. At 10 a. m. the church was filled, seats having to be brought in to accommodate the large number attending. The rector, Rev. Appleton Grantham, preached on the text, "Behold I make things new."

In the afternoon the last of the confirmation instruction were given by the rector and at the close some 29 adults and children were baptized.

In the evening, the annual Easter festival of the Sunday school was held in the church. In the procession through the church, both choirs were in line, followed by over 300 scholars. The American flag, a gift from the Women's Relief corps, was carried, and by its side a beautiful church flag, a gift of the rector, and the other banners of the various departments, made an impressive sight. Previous to the address, the rector spoke of the splendid work which was being done by his assistant, Rev. Mr. Jobe, in the Sunday school, an increase of over 100 scholars in the last year. He also complimented the teachers on their effective work.

Worthington Street Baptist

The Easter decorations at the Worthington Street Baptist church were simple, consisting of lilies and a profusion of green. In the evening there was a choral service by the Sunday school assisted by the choir, with the following program: Processional, "The Day of Resurrection"; prayer; our greeting; Dorothy Farley; recitation, "Christ is Risen"; Gretchen Carr; reading, "The Snake of a Thousand Villages"; recitation, "Spread the Light"; Hazel Vaughan; hymn, "God Hath Sent His Angels"; exercise, "The Hero's Message to Us"; Elizabeth Rhodes; Gladys Vaughan; Euphemia McPhail; recitation, "The Light"; Hazel Roberts; exercise, "Easter Lilies"; primary department; song, "Easter Light"; primary department; reading, "On the Slave Trail"; hymn, "O God of Bethel"; recitation, "Easter Sunshine"; Eunice Allen; recitation, "He is Risen"; Dorothy Thack; recitation, "The Dawn of Hope"; Helen Baker; reading, "True to His Promise"; hymn, "O North, with all thy Valleys of Green"; recitation, "Queen Easter"; Rosabel O'Hare; reading, "Friends Who Were Faithful"; collection; remarks by pastor; hymn, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations."

Elliot Congregational

Rev. C. E. Porter preached at the Elliot Congregational church, Sunday morning, his topic being "The Power of the Resurrection." The church was filled, and the service was well attended. The choir sang appropriate selections during the services, being assisted by Emil Forjes, violinist. Notice was given that the Memorial day conference would meet with this church, Wednesday, forenoon and afternoon. Rev. Mr. Skyles of Malden will preach the sermon. The sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Fisher, D. D., was upon "The Real Easter."

First Universalist

At the First Universalist church the Easter decorations were very beautiful. In the morning the Pilgrim company, very Knights Templars, attended in a body. The choir sang appropriate selections during the services, being assisted by Emil Forjes, violinist. Notice was given that the Memorial day conference would meet with this church, Wednesday, forenoon and afternoon. Rev. Mr. Skyles of Malden will preach the sermon. The sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Fisher, D. D., was upon "The Real Easter."

Suffragette Incendiaries Destroy Property

LONDON, March 24.—Suffragette incendiaries marauded Beckenham, a southeastern suburb of London, before dawn today, setting fire to a house under construction. The women were disturbed during their work of destruction by a passing policeman. They fled and all trace of them was lost. The flames were extinguished before great damage had been done.

The championship golf links at Sandwich, Kent, were the scene of another raid by militant suffragettes, who damaged the greens considerably.

Clarence W. Whidden, treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. building fund, has submitted his report to the directors of the association. The new building cost, for erection, equipment and furnishings, $255,520.01; the pledges for the building fund totaled $108,941.95; for the furnishings $5000, and there was a sum totaling $35.50 that came in without pledges, making the grand total of a subscriptions $172,568.45. The treasurer's report shows that the fund lacks $65,106.55 of being able to meet the bills for the new building and furnishings.

Of the building pledges, all but about $7000 has been paid or is collectable. Leaving what Treasurer Whidden figures as not more than 4 per cent. of the whole original sum pledged as uncollectable, a record of which the committee had of collecting the money in which the whirlwind campaign may well be proud.

Another item that appears modestly in the report is the fact that Treasurer Whidden put the cash to work, earning dividends as fast as it was received, so that he can show that the subscriptions earned over $5000 while lying idle, a sum sufficient to pay the cost of the campaign and of collecting the funds, and over $1400 besides. Treasurer Whidden, it should be stated, gave his time to this work without remuneration, and it has been an immensely detailed work at that.

The old Y. M. C. A. property in Rind street was sold to Albert E. O'Hair for $25,000, but from this sum was deducted a mortgage of a little over $14,000 and a small sum paid Mr. O'Hair as interest on his deposit of $5000 to bind the bargain, the deeds not being delivered and the deal closed for over a year after that $5000 had been deposited. There was also the Buttrick legacy of $3000 from an old fund in the hands of the trustees of the building fund.

The new site was purchased for $25,000, with the idea of utilizing the known stonework foundation and arch of the canal and benefiting from the canal water in making the swimming pool. The foundations were found not to be dependable, and the building committee, after careful deliberation and expert engineering advice, changed the construction in order to make an absolutely safe foundation. This proved expensive, adding many thousands of dollars to the cost of the building. Other changes in the original plans were made from time to time.

Treasurer Whidden closes his report with the following statement: "Your treasurer, without the knowledge or consent of the chairman of the building committee, takes opportunity to say that, in his opinion, there has been no expenditure which was not thoroughly considered."

The final result is that we have in Lowell a new Y. M. C. A. building, centrally located, thoroughly equipped, and well arranged to meet the needs of the association; and I have no hesitation in saying that Lowell has for its needs a new Y. M. C. A. building, each-ord to none in this commonwealth. It is, and should be, generously supported by the good people of Lowell, interested in the welfare and future of the Y. M. C. A. of Lowell.

ALL YOU NEED IS A CASCARET TONIGHT!

NO HEADACHE, SOUR STOMACH, BILIOUSNESS OR CONSTIPATION BY MORNING.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach. Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste water and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great. A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

Local Visitors Who Were on Train That Met With Accident Tell of Their Experiences

The weather was pleasant and the stay in the little country town was not as bad as it would have been on any other occasion. The passengers had two other narrow escapes on their way. While they did not know about until the train stopped in Lyndonville, where it was found that the two other bridges crossed by the train at the same time soon after the first bridge was washed away by flood. There was almost a panic when the passengers alighted from the train, but they were soon quieted down and assured that all danger was gone and when it was known that no one was injured, the normal state of affairs

During the year 275 petitions were received. Twenty-three public hearings were lows: New poles set, 39; streets and avenues included, B, Middlesex, Fifth, Wilder, Parker, Chelmsford, Washington, Lincoln, Ames, Sidney, Willard, Nineteenth, Lawrence, Bachman, Huir.

Upon inspecting the 13 picture machine booths in the various theatres the following names of theatres were found wired in moulding and clearances were ordered re-wired in steel conduit to conform to rules governing theatre wiring: Alhambra, Academy of Music, Grand Opera, and Gaiety.

In concluding his report Mr. Maher takes occasion to thank His Honor, the mayor and members of the municipal council, especially the commissioner of public property and licenses and the commissioner of highways and bridges for the consideration and courteous shown him during the year.

DOUBLE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. Michael Buote, a husband of his sister, Mrs. Buote, in the course of the trial, presented a Rambler automobile, was presented an entire automobile outfit, the presentation being made by Mr. Arthur Paris, a tailor. Mr. Buote, in behalf of the father, presented Mrs. Buote a silver mesh box.

Both, although taken entirely by surprise, responded in fitting terms, and a pleasant evening was spent. A dinner of chicken was served and a fine musical program was given, those taking part being Misses Ross, Lorraine and Lucille, Bernier and others.

RICHESON LAWYER IN EATON CASE

William A. Morse Called by the Woman's Attorneys—Refused to Discuss the Case

BOSTON, March 24.—On the eve of the presentation of such evidence as the authorities possess against Mrs. Jennie May Eaton before a grand jury at Plymouth this morning, William A. Morse, senior counsel for Clarence V. T. Richeson, was called into the Attorney General's office by the woman's attorneys. While Mrs. Eaton passed a quiet and wholly uneventful day in the Plymouth county jail, Mr. Morse, in company with Attorney Francis J. Granger and Judge George W. Kelley, spent more than two hours in conference with her family in Assinippi.

That the trio of lawyers were going over in detail the charge of murder that had been lodged against the naval officer's widow was not denied by Mr. Morse. He declined, however, absolutely to tell in detail any results of the conference.

The day brought forth additional witnesses to the oft-repeated statements of Mrs. Eaton that she was

Wide Hunt for Poison Site

The entire force of the state police, it was learned yesterday, is now at work on the poison hunt with more or less intensity. Likewise the police forces of towns and cities all over the state are co-operating in the slender hope that some arsenic sales may be uncovered which will open up a trail to Assinippi.

The impression is growing in the minds of the investigators that the admiral died of cumulative effects of poisoning—that the arsenic which caused his death was administered in more than one dose—possibly over a stretch of as many as three days.

The neighbors of the Eatons at Assinippi, who, to the present time, have shown a considerable willingness to discuss the case, and who have contributed volumes of gossip to the case, yesterday began to assume an attitude of secretiveness only equalled by some of the investigators.

It was a matter of difficulty to get from any one of them the admission that they had been summoned to appear before the grand jury this morning. So far as is known, however, the list of about a score who are called upon to testify has not been added to.

Mrs. June Keyes and Dorothy Ainsworth, Eaton's two daughters, are looking forward to the grand jury investigation as affording them their first opportunity of seeing their mother since her arrest.

In case Mrs. Harrison is well enough to go to Plymouth it is expected that she, too, will take advantage of the fact to see her daughter.

Souvenir Hunters Busy

Souvenir hunters yesterday besieged both the Eaton place and the humble home of "Jim" Prouty across the way. Constable Hammond had to be on the lookout all the time to keep parties that arrived in automobiles, carriages and on foot from invading the premises and taking away anything and everything that might commemorate the gruesome case. They even broke off twigs from the trees.

One such party, foiled in their endeavor to get anything from the Eaton place, went to Mr. Prouty's and succeeded in purchasing from him four large and ornate cut glass goblets which had been a gift to him from Mrs. Eaton some time ago.

Throughout all the daylight hours the passersby peered into windows and passed and repassed again and again before the Eaton place. One party tried to get into the house on the plea that they were cold.

Mrs. Keyes Goes Walking

But one member of the family essayed to leave the house during the day. It was Mrs. June Keyes, and with the little dogs she walked as far as Jacob's pond. On her return she was accompanied by Constable Hammond, who went to meet her in order to protect her from curious or intruding strangers.

The police were yesterday reported to have located Harry Cate, the Rockland man who used to be friendly with the Eaton family, and to whom Mrs. Eaton is reported to have made threats against her husband. He will be one of the witnesses at the grand jury proceedings, it is reported.

In addition to the already published list of witnesses, it is understood that Dr. Charles H. Colgate, Jr., a former family physician, is to be called, as also will be Mrs. Fred Corbett of Mann's corner, with whom June lived for a time.

BURNED TO DEATH

Man, Wife and Daughter Perished in Blaze

GLASSBORO, N. J., March 24.—Lying in the cellar, amid the smoldering ruins of their home, the charred bodies of Lee Wharton, 38 years old, his wife, Mary, 32, and their 6-year-old daughter Lillian were discovered yesterday following a mysterious fire early yesterday, which destroyed their little frame home on the new Brooklyn-Williamstown road, about 10 miles from here.

The body of Johnson Hemphill, 42 years old, a farmhand on a neighboring farm, was found in a shed in the rear of the burned house with a load of shot through his heart.

Mystery surrounds the four deaths. What occurred up to the time Hemphill was shot, how he was shot and how the house was set on fire are details which Coroner Stutz yesterday vainly endeavored to ascertain.

A double barreled shotgun with one empty shell was found in the little kitchen near where the body of Hemphill was discovered. The latter was said by neighbors to have been on friendly terms with Mrs. Wharton and it is declared they were at a moving picture show in Williamstown Saturday night.

Whether this caused a fight between the two men, during which Hemphill was shot by Wharton, or whether Hemphill killed himself after a quarrel, are questions being asked by those investigating the case.

An incubator which stood in the kitchen of the home may have been responsible for the fire in which the three members of the family perished. Their bodies were so badly burned that the coroner was unable to determine whether or not they had been shot before the flames attacked them.

The Richmond Conference

Farmers' business men, and school workers will meet to discuss rural schools, agricultural credits, marketing methods and other pressing problems of country life at the conference for education in the south, to be held at Richmond, Va., April 15-18. Each group will have special conferences on its own particular work, and then all will come together in a general session to discuss fundamental points in the rebuilding of rural life.

In response to the invitation of Governor of Virginia, the governors of nearly all the southern states have appointed delegations of farmers and business men to attend the Richmond meeting and take part in the discussion of such important topics as: Lack of capital in farming and how it may be remedied; the tenant evil, its extent and influence; why business men are concerned with the rural problem; how to organize and conduct cooperative market associations; how to make the rural schools educate more effectively for the demands of country life; and how to make the country a better place to live in.

At the farmers' conference it is expected that a definite plan for organizing and managing cooperative marketing associations will be worked out. Before the business situation in the south will be presented by men who have made a special study of its possibilities and needs; and bankers, merchants and manufacturers will discuss how they may aid in the development of agricultural resources.

One of the important meetings of the conference will be an interstate meeting of state and county superintendents, teachers of agriculture, and other educators, at which the subject for discussion will be "The Most Effective Means for Improving the Rural School." The members of the Bureau of Education, will urge the necessity for a well-defined, constructive county plan in rural education. Typical rural-school problems will be discussed by county superintendents and others who are deeply interested in improving the country school, such as: Albert S. Cook, of Baltimore County, Md.; Jehonah Judah, Wake County, N. C.; Miss Rhea C. Scott and L. J. Hamilton, supervisors in Virginia and West Virginia, respectively; Miss Jessie Yancy, Mason County, Ky.; A. R. Jones, Equality, Ala.; J. S. Stewart, Athens, Ga.; and many others.

Arrangements for the Richmond meetings are in charge of A. P. Boutwell, of Washington, D. C., who is the executive secretary of the conference.

4 HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH

Defective Switch Caused a Collision

BOSTON, March 24.—Two surface cars containing more than fifty passengers were partly demolished by a broadside collision at Dartmouth street and Columbus avenue shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Four persons were hurt by flying glass, and the crash was loud enough to be heard by residents of the neighborhood within a radius of two blocks.

Those injured were John Cleary, the motorman, who was tossed several feet through the side of his wrecked vestibule; Dr. Francis Crawford of the Deer Island hospital; Henry J. Smith of Casanova street; and his wife Honora. They were treated by Dr. Charles H. Moran of 235 Columbus avenue and were able to go to their homes unassisted.

The car was coming along Dartmouth street from Boylston, and was supposed to take the switch and turn into Columbus avenue. The electric switch did not operate, however, and the car did not straighten ahead on the other track along Dartmouth street, striking the middle of a Franklin Park car traveling north on Columbus avenue.

The windows of the Franklin Park car were broken and woodwork was smashed on one side. The front of the colliding car was wrecked completely. The noise at the collision was sufficient to attract a crowd of several hundred. The Franklin Park car was lifted from the rails, but was shunted along within a few minutes to a siding. Traffic was delayed by a short time.

HE COMMITTED SUICIDE

Man Despondent Over Financial Troubles

Morris Goldfarb of 23 Daly street, becoming despondent over financial troubles, committed suicide yesterday at his home by drinking the contents of a pint bottle of creolin. He was removed to St. John's hospital, where he died a few hours later.

As far as could be learned Goldfarb entered into a partnership with another young man of Daly street, and the two bought horses with the intention of selling them ever again, a sort of speculative business. This did not prove successful and finally Goldfarb sold his interest to his partner and went to New York. He returned yesterday and found his wife and two-year-old baby with the former's mother.

He returned to his home and there drank creolin. His wife returned to the house a short time later and found her husband unconscious beside the kitchen table. She called for help and milk, mustard and other poison antidotes were administered, but this was of no avail. Finally the ambulance was summoned and the sick man was removed to the hospital, where he passed away shortly after 9 o'clock. Deceased is survived by his wife and baby.

MICHAEL J. RYAN

Won First Runabout Yesterday—Excellent Entertainment Program: Was Enjoyed by Large Number

Michael J. Ryan, 45 Melrose street, buyer at the Bon Marche, is the lucky winner of the Ford runabout which was drawn last night for the benefit of the annex to the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket, R. I. The machine is a 1913 model and was on exhibition at St. Joseph's Mart Co. in Merrimack street. The drawing took place at St. Joseph's college hall last evening before a very large gathering, and following it was the presentation of two plays: "Joachim Murat" and "Son Altesse" by a group of young men of the parish.

The affair was a fine success and reflects much credit on the organizers. The program was as follows:

Overture, A. G. Cadets, brass band; song, Miss Rebecca Lacouture; comic songs, E. L. Turcot; reading, Willie Gelineau. The members of the cast in the drama were as follows:

DR. ANNA H. SHAW

Was Unable to Attend Saturday Night Meeting of Y. M. C. A.—Address Given by Miss Mills

As Dr. Anna H. Shaw, who was to have been the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night was unable to be present on account of illness, Miss Harriet May Mills, president of the New York Equal Suffrage league, spoke to about 200 people who gathered there.

Although the news that Dr. Shaw could not be present at first disappointed the audience, Miss Mills proved to be second to none in regard to this work.

A resolution was proposed, thanking Representative Joseph Craig and Chas. H. Williams, for their favorable vote on the equal suffrage bill, and asking Representative Otis W. Butler, Dennis A. Murphy, Eugene F. Toomey, Henry Aehin and Victor P. Jewett to give their votes in favor of said bill when it comes up again next Tuesday.

The resolution was adopted unanimously, though a few refrained from voting and one man shouted "No!" as he was making a run for the stairs.

Keeping the Body in Repair

Nature intended that the body should do its own repairing—and it would do so were it not for the fact that most of us live other than a natural life.

Nature didn't intend that we should wear corsets, tight collars or shoes, nor live in badly ventilated and draughty houses, nor eat and drink some of the things that we do, nor ride in street cars when we should walk.

The consequence is that the body when it gets out of order must look for outside help to make the necessary repairs.

For weak stomachs and the indigestion or dyspepsia resulting, and the multitude of diseases following therefrom, no medicine can be more adaptable as a curative agent than DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

This famous Doctor's prescription has been recommended for over 40 years, and is today just as big a success. Restores a healthy appetite. Cleanses the blood. Strengthens the nerves. Regulates stomach and liver. Demand the original.

A BIG PIANO SALE

PIANO TRUST CAN'T DOWN THE
Roxbury Storage Salesrooms

The Fight Grows Harder and More Bitter
A Great Chance for the Public to Buy at Cut Prices

A piano sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a mark-down sale. The very nature of the business here is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular piano store where they are expected to make a profit on each piano. We don't let any piano loaf around our doors; a sacrifice tag is clipped on each one when the face of it reads competition, and it is sold to the first who man or woman for the price marked on the tag. Prices doesn't mean anything at these sales. We cut and double cut prices on all makes alike; we ask no favors, we want none, and we give none. In sales like these someone's loss is your gain, the profit is all yours. The finest instruments of the world's best makers are in the sacrifice list.

KILLS WIFE ON WAY FROM CHURCH

W. A. McDonald Slashes Woman's Throat With Razor in Presence of Children

BOSTON, March 24.—With his own son vainly striving to fight him off, William A. McDonald, 38 years old, employed as a elevator in Boston, slashed the throat of his wife, Margaret E. McDonald, also 38 years old, on Broadway, Arlington, yesterday morning. A jagged razor wound, extending from ear to ear, severing both jugular veins, caused almost instant death.

Coolly and deliberately premeditating the act, as he later told the police, McDonald lay in wait for his wife, three small children and his niece, as they were returning from church. Without an exchange of words, he stepped up to her, knocked her to the sidewalk, and as she rose whipped out the razor and slashed her across the throat.

William, his 16-year-old son, sought to stay his father's hand, but he lacked the strength to tear the weapon from him. In his attempt his hand was severely cut.

McDonald started to run the moment he accomplished his purpose, apparently with the intention of making away with himself in a secluded spot. He was overtaken, however, by James J. Kenna, a neighbor of the family, who, with the assistance of Thomas Haley, caretaker of the Rawson stable nearby, managed to hold him until the police arrived.

He was arraigned this morning in the Cambridge court, charged with murder in the first degree. The Arlington police declare he is perfectly sane, and was not intoxicated.

"She was a good wife and mother, but I wanted to get rid of her and I did," this was the only explanation he gave the police of his shocking act.

Separated Two Years
The tragedy, which shocked the whole lower part of Arlington, where McDonald and his wife were well known, occurred shortly after 8 o'clock, at a time when many persons were on the streets on their way to and from the Easter masses at St. Agnes' church. The victim and the children were returning from the 7 o'clock mass.

At the time of the tragedy a Boston Elevated car, inbound from Arlington centre to Sullivan square, was passing. The motorman brought the car to a stop and passengers and crew rushed out. Some of the men ran towards the spot where Kenna and Haley were subduing the murderer. In a very few minutes the street was thronged.

McDonald and his wife had not lived together since February, 1911. He left home at that time, after frequent quarrels, and has since lived at 35 Staniford street, Boston. He had seen his wife at intervals since. Several times when he tried to gain entrance to the McDonald home at 65 Broadway, his wife had caused him to be arrested. Once she had him arrested for assault and battery and he served a short jail sentence for the affair.

About a month ago McDonald wrote to his wife and asked for permission to come and see his children. Mrs. McDonald refused the request. A week ago yesterday, according to neighbors, he visited Arlington and spent the greater part of the day on Broadway. He did not go near the house, but was apparently waiting about in the hope that he might get a glimpse of the children.

Lies in Wait for Wife
Yesterday morning, just before 8 o'clock, he made his appearance at the home of Edson Kimball, 129 Broadway, about half way between the McDonald home and the corner of Tufts street, where the murder occurred. He told Mr. Kimball that he was waiting for his wife. Mr. Kimball said that he smelled liquor on his breath, but that he was in no way intoxicated.

From the front of the Kimball home, he could see far up Broadway, and when his wife, three children and niece came in sight he started toward them. Clad in overalls and jumper, his working clothes, his children did not recognize him until he neared them.

Without a moment's warning he stepped up to his wife and struck her on the face. She fell to the sidewalk, and as she picked herself up McDonald pulled the razor from his pocket. He seized her about the throat and beat her back.

Little William, realising then for the first time his father's intent, leaped into the air to clutch the razor. His hand closed about the blade, but the man wrenched it from him, and as the boy fell back he drew it across his wife's throat. Still clutching the razor in his hand, he started across the street.

Kenna, who lives at 69 Broadway, two doors from the McDonald home, saw the man strike down the woman, and as he was passing, the Kimball home, he noticed two Italians on the opposite side of the street, and, thinking the assailant one of their party, ran toward the scene. Just as he neared it he saw the razor flash in the sunlight and the woman fall.

Murderer Captured
He darted across the street and caught the murderer as the latter turned up Tufts street, running toward Massachusetts avenue. McDonald is big and powerful and several inches taller than Kenna, but the latter grappled with him and managed to throw him. Haley, who had been attracted from the stables, assisted in subduing him.

Hurry calls were sent for the police and doctors. When Dr. David J. Buckley arrived, however, the woman was dead. Dr. Harold R. Webb, the town physician, arrived soon afterward. After medical examination Swan had viewed the body it was removed to Hartwell's undertaking rooms on Medford street.

Sergeant John Duffy of the police department took McDonald in charge. In his cell at the Arlington police station McDonald talked freely and told Chief Urquhart that he fully realized the enormity of his crime. He had intended to take his own life and had started toward Tufts street for that purpose.

The McDonald family has lived in Arlington about a dozen years and up to a few years ago the domestic life of the husband and wife had been apparently happy. Three years ago Marion, a 14-year-old daughter, died very suddenly of typhoid fever. Her death McDonald began drinking heavily. Frequent quarrels terminated in his leaving home.

Children's Grief
Neighbors of the family declared that Mrs. McDonald feared her husband, as did the children. But Mary, the 10-year-old daughter and eldest of the family, declared that she never believed he would take her mother's life.

The grief of the three children, and of Marion Lunny, 17-year-old niece of the slain woman, was pitiful to behold. William, who had frantically sought to save his mother's life, knelt by her side while the doctors were on their way and pleaded with her to return to life.

"Speak to me, speak to me, mother," he cried, unable to realize that the lips which he smothered with kisses would never speak again. Joseph, the 10-year-old "baby" of the family, could hardly realize the extent of the tragedy.

The children, their clothes spattered by their mother's blood, were taken into the Kimball home. Later they went to their own home, where Mary immediately started to comfort the younger children. So great was the shock that tears refused to come to her own eyes. Late in the afternoon she broke down and a doctor's care was necessary.

No arrangements for the funeral had been made up to a late hour last night. The dead woman was a regular attendant at St. Agnes' church. At the early mass yesterday, with the four children she received holy communion. Little William was to return for the solemn high mass and sing in the newly organized sanctuary choir.

Kenna's Story of the Crime
James J. Kenna, who braved personal danger to capture the murderer, told the following story to a reporter:

"I was on my way to church, and when I was passing Kimball's house I saw the man step up to Mrs. McDonald and knock her down. I did not recognize him in his working clothes, but, thinking him one of a party of Italians across the street, I started to run toward him.

"Just as I neared them I saw the razor flash through the air and Mrs. McDonald fell. I started across the street, but I managed to catch him. He put up a terrific fight and tried to wrench the hand containing the razor free. Fearing that he would use the weapon on me if I got it, I struggled and managed to hold him until Mr. Haley arrived."

SATURDAY'S PARADE

Arrangements Are Now Practically Complete

The big day for the Irish Catholic societies is fast approaching and nearly everything is in readiness for the parade in honor of St. Patrick which will take place on next Saturday and to which the members of the various Catholic organizations throughout the city will turn out in large numbers to celebrate the feast of the patron saint of Ireland.

Tonight the final session of the committee in general charge of all the arrangements will be held in the Hibernian hall when the sub-committees and officers will complete the final details of the arrangements which have been progressing under the direction of Chief Marshal James McManmon, and his assistants who have labored hard for the success of the event. The parade should be the largest and grandest of its kind ever witnessed here.

According to reports made yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Central council of the A. O. H. there will be more than 2000 out of town members of the Hibernian organization here next Saturday to take part in the parade. They will represent divisions of the order from Manchester, Andover, Lawrence, Nashua, Woburn and other cities and towns.

President P. J. Mahoney who presided yesterday, appointed a committee to provide hospitality for the visitors and to make the necessary arrangements for the accommodation of all. It is expected that State President Patrick F. Cannon of Clinton and State Vice President John F. Donnelly of Cambridge will come to Lowell to take part in the procession.

A meeting of Chief Marshal McManmon and his staff was held yesterday afternoon at which he issued directions as to the details of uniform, adornment and the general duties which are theirs to perform on next Saturday.

The places of assembly of the various divisions of the Hibernian order in this city will be as follows: Div. 1, Carpenters' hall, Rutland building; Div. 2, Elks hall, Middle street; Div. 3, Street Railway Riders' hall, Rutland building; Div. 11, Cotton Spinners' hall, and Middle street; Div. 25, Weavers' hall, 35 Middle street.

Decorations Along Route
The route of the parade although already published, is inserted here again by request.

Starting from Wille street the course will be through the following streets: Broadway, Suffolk, Merrimack, Central, Gorham, to Davis square, Back Central, Church, High, Bartlett, Fayette, East Merrimack to Bridge, Bridge to Seventh, counter-march to Merrimack and John street.

The parade will be reviewed by Rt. Rev. Bishop Anderson and other clergymen at St. Patrick's rectory and by the city government and visiting officials on a special grandstand at city hall.

Already Decorator Young is busy putting up bunting along the route and even some distance from the route so that a fine display is assured.

The Manchester Delegation
Apropos of the forthcoming parade, the Manchester, N. H. correspondent to the Boston Globe says:

It is anticipated that Manchester will be represented by nearly 3000 men in the St. Patrick's day parade to be held in Lowell, March 29. Arrangements have been completed for the trip by the Manchester delegation, which will go by special train. The Manchester contingent will include, in addition to the divisions of Hibernians, of C. the Irish Foresters and the Sheridan and Emmet Guards of the 1st Regiment, N. H. N. G.

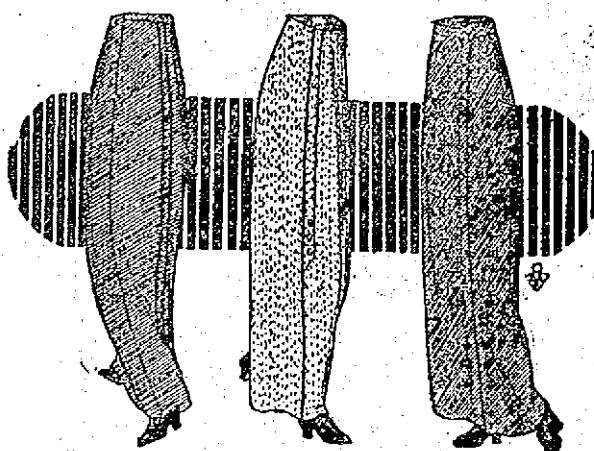

The parade will be the largest held in Lowell for a number of years and will include delegations from many of the New England cities, including military organizations.

THE CUP RACE

The general opinion of the press seems to be that the New York Yacht club is not dealing with the challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton in the true spirit of sportsmanship which he has always shown, and shows in the present instance, towards us. Instead of treating of the main issue, which is the development of our sailing craft as compared with that of England, the New York club has raised questions of technicalities concerning the proper interpretation of the deed of gift by which that club became the custodian of the famous trophy. In answer to the original challenge of Sir Thomas this technical question was raised, and that there might be no misunderstanding he has striven to meet the difficulties named in the American rejection of his challenge in a straightforward, honest manner. His answer ought to convince all sport-loving Americans that the titled challenger does not wish to take advantage of any clause or velled allusion in original agreements, but wishes instead a yacht race that will be as fair a test of superiority in boat building and racing as that in which the "America" triumphed half a century ago.

For the sake of the sport of yacht racing in itself, and in a greater degree, for the sake of our fair name, the New York Yacht club ought to drop its attitude of suspicion and deal openly with the slight difficulties which at present prevent the international contest. It certainly was not the intention of those who favored the deed of gift which gave that club the guardianship of the much contested cup that no attempts were ever to be made by England to win it back. We ought to feel that the spirit of our sportsmen of the past was far above such petty dealings, and we hope that the attitude of our sportsmen of today will stand as searching a test. Thus far the New York Yacht club has not manifested the least desire for a race. Why this attitude of indifference is shown is not easily understood, as in the past America demonstrated our superiority in yacht racing beyond the shadow of a doubt, and our enterprise has not been at a standstill. It cannot be that they fear a test, keeping this in mind, for even if there was any ground for fear, there would be far more cause for national pride in a gallantly fought contest against a gallant foe, even though we were the losers, than by a retention of the cup based on a small and selfish interpretation of existing regulations.

A NEW PARK SUPERINTENDENT

The suggestions of Judge Pickman regarding a new park superintendent to succeed Charles A. Whittell, are very much to the point, outlining as they do the important duties of the office, its growing importance, and the qualities that fit a man for the position. Some of our parks are in the first stages of development and their future possibilities will depend in a great measure on the knowledge and administrative qualities of the new superintendent. In some measures he must be a landscape gardener, a nature lover, and a botanist. To be a success, not only must he appreciate the beauties of lawn, of shrub and flower, but he must be acquainted with their climatic conditions as they affect vegetation, the various pests that menace vegetable growth in this region, and the measures that prevent their ravages. Besides this, he must be a man of active and executive temperament as on him will depend the laying out of work, the handling of men, the keeping track of costs, and all the practical details of the work of preserving and developing the parks, both old and new. At the same time he must keep within the appropriation, and this may be one his greatest difficulties if we are to judge from the experience of the past few years.

The question of city parks is one that is receiving much attention in all the principal cities of the country. To secure the best service Boston has just organized a new department to be known as "The park and recreation department." It is being recognized that parks, besides being of the utmost advantage to the people of a city, offer one of the most attractive advertisements of which a city can boast. Who can think of Boston without its common or its public gardens, or of New York without its Central park and its Coney Island? The philanthropy of individuals has given Lowell some beautiful parks which, when fully developed, will compare with the best in this section of the country. It will be a future incentive to the public men of Lowell to follow the lofty example of the Rogers family, Mr. Shedd, and our other benefactors, if the city shows its appreciation by doing all in its power to make our public parks and recreation grounds the influences for education and enjoyment for which they were intended. To do this adequately it is very necessary that the park superintendent be a man of knowledge and progressiveness, and the park board should act with great care and deliberation in naming Mr. Whittell's successor.

A SALUTARY CALM

Congressman Underwood has asked the people of the country to abstain from hasty judgments on the proposed tariff changes until the government is ready to make official announcement of its recommendations. In explanation of his request he says that the tariff forecasts which have come to his knowledge from outside sources have been entirely wrong in most cases, and he deprecates the feverish haste in adverse criticism that might be prejudicial to the best interests of the new administration. In view of the fact that the government has declared its determination to restore rather than to destroy, and the general air of security that prevails in business circles, his request is not unreasonable. The special session is near, the ground has been well prepared, and we may confidently suspend judgment until the final schedules are announced.

Another notable example of a request for calm judgment is the recent address of Governor Ralston of Indiana, who in his inaugural address said, "While I was nominated for governor as a party man and elected as such, and am with pride still a democrat without apology, I do not fail to recognize in the hour of triumph that the noise and prejudice of a campaign have been succeeded by the calm so essential to good neighborhood and public welfare."

It is certainly to be much desired that the "noise and prejudice of a campaign" should have ceased with the coming to power of a new president representing an old party but one that has long been a stranger to success. Now as never before measures of national reform take on a strictly business aspect, and the president and democratic leaders have thus far acted with a sense of justice and with great prudence. They have requested the support and the assistance of all the people, and that their work may be wholly effective, the "necessary calm" would seem to be the proper attitude, at least until the proposed legislation is more clearly defined.

EASTER

The sorrow and gloom of Lent are over, and with all its wealth of beautiful symbolism the church has celebrated the resurrection of Christ, the victory over death, the hope of immortality. The purple pall of mourning has been removed, and the new era of hope and happiness has been ushered in with the sound of triumphant music, the jubilate psalms of bells, and the stainless glory of Easter lilies. Not only in a spiritual sense but in a material do we see this birth of a new life. The Easter spirit is indeed abroad. Spring warmth has tempered the keen breeze, there is a shrill twittering among the birds, the dried branches have felt the revivifying sap in their veins and are bursting forth in tiny shoots of green.

The spiritual and natural significance of the Easterlode pleads for recognition in the hearts of mankind. In all its Christian beauty, it whispers to us a message of resignation and of hope. Amid the toils and cares of existence there is many a period of darkness and of Lent. The walks of life take us through many a path in the valley of shadows. But at the end of all is a glorious promise. After the gloom and shadow of the road shall fall the rapture of the Easter, the songs of triumph, the perfume of the flowers. Let us lift up our hearts and be glad for the message of Easter has not been in vain.

PROPOSED OAKLAND FENWAY

Nothing calls forth reader response and signs of appreciation from the Lowell public than the announcement of new parks and pleasure grounds in any section of the city which does not possess as many as are necessary for the health and pleasure of our population. It is, therefore, to be hoped that the optimism of the Oakland improvement association will be justified regarding the new fenway for which they are striving, and which seems already fairly well assured. The Oakland is one of the foremost residential districts of our city, and although little has been yet done in the laying out of its walks and spaces, Nature has given it a wealth of hill and valley that a very slight expenditure could convert into a scene of rare beauty. As the land in the immediate vicinity of the proposed fenway is almost entirely undeveloped, and as such a scheme as is suggested would be to the benefit of the city and the owner of the property, there is no reason why the mutual good of all should not draw the interested parties closer together, and result in a little park that would bid fair to be one of the most beautiful in our growing park system. The fact that the land is to be donated for this special purpose makes the fenway park scheme one to be doubly commended.

JUMPING FREIGHTS

Jumping freights here or anywhere else is dangerous business. First of all it has dangers arising solely from the conditions under which the "passenger" rides. It may be over a hunter that is liable to throw him off; it may be in the running gear under the car or on top which is practically as perilous. But the danger of being caught and either shot or compelled to jump is another grave aspect that is seldom seriously considered by the freight jumper. Police and detectives usually regard freight jumpers as desperadoes who fear arrest if they ride on a passenger train. That is why no boy or man who does not wish to be so classed should be a freight jumper.

Many young men of Lowell seem to have taken up shady methods of making money. They had better drop the buncos games although they may succeed for a time in escaping detection. Very few of them, however, escape very long in these parts. The local police are great on picking the crooks from a crowd.

Now is the time for the board of health to force the spring cleaning of back yards, lanes and alleys. Some of the streets are also in a condition that demands not only the attention of the street commissioner but also of the board of health.

THE NEIGHBOR

He set his hand to the plow one day, and yet his years were few. Resolved to do a distant field with furrows firm and true. His arms were strong for the toil of life.

His heart was all a-fire, and turned him home, and turned him home, and turned him home. Rebuilding his desire:

"You are too young, you are too poor, you are too weak," said he, "Best leave such tasks to the rich and great, and strive to be like me."

Then rosy Love brought grand largesse To his very cottage door. And he never knew of mystery and charm. And the lad held out dumb hands of hope.

To the mighty fires of Peace, Till the neighbor passed with tongue in cheek, And then he sought release.

"You are too old," the neighbor said, "to shirk by such a scheme. Find you a girl of common clay to wed, and be like me!"

So time sped, till the fading day Could bring but one last chance To break the bonds of a sordid life And escape this circumstance.

And, well high spent, he sought the road To the heights where life is great, Eager to reach one shining goal. But his neighbor whispered: "Wait!"

I dreamed of light; And then in the heart of the night, Your face came to me clear, like a star. Out of my mind came afar.

My heart—and its breaking, My love—and its aching, Went up to you through the night, And you were the Light.

I dreamed of rest; And straightway, magical, blest— Your hand was laid like a kiss on my heart.

And hushed the smart, My striving—and sobbing, My burning—and throbbing, All stilled by a touch unguessed! And you were my Rest.

I dreamed of song; In the night hours long Your heart from far away did speak In cadences divine;

Music of mingles and of weeping, And great wings sweeping, Harmonies wild and true— And the Song was you.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Change of Policy Foster's Democrat: At last the Boston Chamber of Commerce is waking up. So long as the railroads and "boost" will be its slogan from now on, and they can't begin the boosting a bit too soon. It is about time for the New Hampshire legislature to begin to engage in the boosting business instead of fighting the Boston & Maine.

The Fighting Race Fall River Globe: It is interesting and curious, remarks a contemporary that while most nations honor military heroes as their chief patrons, Ireland with a record for fighting prowess selects a man of peace to set upon its leading pedestal of fame. St. Patrick's principal glory was in founding 365 churches and planning schools by each.

Such an apostle of civilization deserves his annual holiday more than do the great captains who achieved distinction by human slaughter.

Inspiration Brooklyn Times: Instead of abandoning the picture of Theodore Roosevelt which hangs on the wall of the executive office in Washington, Prof. Taft has sent for it, asking that it be shipped to New Haven. Perhaps it will come in handy as inspiration for some of the forthcoming lectures on the constitution.

The Bryan "Break" Worcesterpost Call: It was said that Mr. Bryan is rather than what he said that gives offense. The sentiment he uttered is nearly universal in the United States. The British government does just as much as there is much sympathy here for home rule in Ireland. It is shared by descendants of other people than the Irish. Mr. Bryan was well known by the British to have been always a sympathizer with Irish political grievances. There are many Britons who think precisely as he does about it.

In the meantime President Wilson is said to be disturbed not at all by the existing criticism of his secretary of state, Mr. Wilson is a good judge, we take it, of the value of such disturbances.

The Chinese Loan New Bedford Times: The action of President Wilson in declining to request American bankers of the six-power Chinese loan to continue their negotiations coming at a time when it was generally believed in Europe at least, that the transaction was about to be completed, has created surprise and disapproval on this distant form of dollar diplomacy and his attitude.

A Party Leader Lynn Item: The president does not intend to fall into the error of his predecessor, who made no attempt to become the leader of his party, so far as any publication of such a purpose went. Mr. Wilson assumes party leadership, with all that the name signifies. He will go frequently to the capitol to consult with members of congress. It has always been his theory of government by party that the president was elected to be the leader, and he particularly was charged by the people with the duty of carrying out of party pledges. He believes that the tariff should be treated as a party measure, and after the leaders have approved the tariff bill he will make every effort to secure its passage in both houses, without material alteration.

He says the crime was committed between 8 and 9 o'clock, February 22, and a most serious allegation—that the news in Washington before the time of the killing, according to the "official story."

EDUCATION NOTES

The movement for vocational education in this country is now in full swing. Six states already have more or less complete systems of vocational training, and a number of others are considering legislation to introduce into the public schools work that will fit boys and girls more directly for earning a living. In order to aid in the movement, the National Society for the Production of Industrial Education has issued a brief, explicit statement of what it considers the main principles that should underlie the proposed legislation, and the United States bureau of education, while not giving official endorsement to the program, is sending copies of the pamphlets to those who apply for it.

What are the essentials of a state system of practical education? The society's circular endeavors to answer this question. In a few short, non-technical paragraphs, it sums up certain of the fundamental notions of vocational education as this society sees it. It urges state aid to the local communities. It recognizes four fields of vocational training as the kind the state ought to furnish its boys and girls: Industrial education for workers in the trades and industries and in the household; agricultural education for the farmers; commercial education for clerks, salesmen, etc.; and "household arts education" for non-wage-earning occupations connected with the home. In other words, the state ought to make it possible for children to receive in the public schools instruction that will fit them directly for productive employment in any of these useful occupations, instead of sending them out with little or no training for the real work they are going to do.

Experience has already been sufficient to indicate in what kind of schools this vocational training can be given. The circular cites a number of types of schools, some based on European models, others on American practice, among them: the day school, where the pupils spend at least one year in all-day attendance; the part-time schools, where boys and girls regularly employed may come for a few hours each week; the evening schools in industry or agriculture, for persons over 16 years of age who work during the day; and similar evening schools or classes in household arts.

It is significant that the six states that have already set up systems of vocational education—Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Wisconsin and Indiana—have long had excellent schools. The newer education which they are introducing is not intended to replace the old but to supplement it; to give training for a specific employment in addition to the regular schooling, so that the boys and girls may be more efficient and willing workers, as well as better educated individuals.

SERIOUS AUTO ACCIDENT

Little Fred Frawley Was Nearly Killed

Another serious automobile accident occurred yesterday morning in Central street in which Frederick Frawley, 10-year-old son of Wagon Officer Patrick Frawley of the local police department, was struck and badly injured by the machine of Henry Bros., driven by John Henry. Another lad, Frank Hickey, cousin of the injured boy, narrowly escaped being a victim for the auto struck him also, throwing him to the street and inflicting minor injuries. The young Frawley boy is now at St. John's hospital suffering with several broken ribs and a fracture of the right leg above the ankle, in addition to several cuts and bruises. The authorities at the hospital state that his recovery is expected.

The two boys, it is said, started to cross the street and did not notice the automobile which was proceeding down Central street. It is thought that the driver did not see the boys until too late to avoid the accident, which occurred near Hurd street. The forward end of the machine struck Frederick Frawley while Hickey was thrown to one side, not receiving the full impact of the machine. Frawley was dragged a short distance before the machine could be brought to a stop. The ambulance appeared on the spot a few moments later in response to a hurry call and the victim was conveyed to St. John's hospital. Everything possible was done for him and today he was reported to be resting as comfortably as could be expected and with the chances decidedly in favor of his recovery.

The evening service brought out a congregation that completely filled the church. The feature was "The Message of Light," comprising a program appropriate to Easter day and to the Livingstone centenary, by Irene Mason. Contributors to the program were: Gladys Green, Mary Overton, Earl Stevenson, Eula Clement, Elliott Roberts, Pearl Rodgers, Arthur Doves, Beryl Fraad, Annabel Gordon, Elizabeth McCoy, Florence Latham, Elizabeth Needham, Doris Perington, Lita Prescott, David Browning, Warren Thind, Arthur Hallenburgh, Harold Hardy, Sumner Needham, Austin Mears, Frank McCoys, Foster Browning, Ernest Craig, Richard Lodge, Forrest Stimpson, Robert Fisher, Charles Thorsberg, Winfield Aldrich, Raymond Babington, Livingstone Lomas.

A picture of David Livingstone was unveiled by Livingstone Lomas, a four-year-old boy whose grandfather was named after the great missionary, and who was born in Blantyre, Scotland, the birthplace of Livingstone. At the close of the service, members of the church warmly congratulated those who had the work of preparation in charge, upon the splendid success achieved. The church quartet, comprising Mrs. A. E. Duncan, Mrs. H. D. Dawson, Mr. Louis Mason and Mr. Joseph Henthorne, together with Frank D. Hill, director, also came in for expressions of appreciation.

Kirk Street Church
Manney's Easter cantata, "The Resurrection," was sung at the Kirk street church, last night, before a congregation that filled the auditorium. The regular choir was augmented by the quartet from the Unitarian church, and Mr. A. C. Spaulding, the organist.

RESINOL STOPS SKIN TORMENTS

How This Wonderful Ointment Ends Itching and Heals Eruptions

The soothing, healing medication in Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap penetrates every tiny pore of the skin, clears it of all impurities, and itching instantly. Resinol positively cures eczema, rashes, ringworm, and other eruptions, and clears away disfiguring pimples and blackheads, when other treatments prove worse than useless.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which proved so wonderfully successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other doctors all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, but you can test them at no expense. Just write to Dept. H-2, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., and we will send you a generous trial by parcel post.

was assisted by Miss Laura Murphy at the piano. The cantata was effectively sung throughout.

The music was a feature of both services, a large congregation being present in the morning. On Lincoln preached in the morning on "The Experience of Resurrection." Mrs. W. G. Spence, the regular soprano, who has been ill, was unable to sing, and her place was taken by Mrs. H. Kirke White.

The decorations for the day included Easter lilies, which covered the entire front of the platform, against a background of palms.

First Unitarian

At the morning services in the First Unitarian church, yesterday morning, the pastor, Rev. Charles T. Billings, had for his sermon subject the words: "Lo, I Am With You Always." The flowers were beautiful and there was special music. Among the numbers was the alto solo, "Thy Redeemer Liveth" (Manney) sung with much beauty by Mrs. Frederick Leahy.

First Presbyterian

Well attended services were held in the First Presbyterian church yesterday, with Easter music the feature. Two choirs, the senior and the junior, blended their voices in hymns of gladness, and duet singing was contributed by Miss Edna MacAdams and Miss Florence Ramsay, with Mr. John M. Brown as musical director. At the morning service the pastor, Rev. J. M. Craig, had for his subject "A Joyful Sunday," and at the evening service, his subject was, "No Resurrection, No Christianity." Both sermons were appropriate to the day, and of deep interest to those who heard them. The church was beautifully decorated, potted plants and Easter lilies covering the pulpit platform.

Highland Methodist

The Easter services at the Highland Methodist church were very impressive and the occasion was emphasized by beautiful flowers.

At the morning service, the pastor, Rev. Henry L. McLean, had for his subject, "The Creditability of the Resurrection." The Easter number was conducted by Mr. James Halthwaite, Miss Grace M. Currier, Miss Bessie Porter, Mr. E. W. Kilpatrick, Mr. A. G. Booth and Mr. F. Timmons.

The evening concert was given by the Sunday school under the direction of Mrs. H. L. McLean, and it was much appreciated by a large congregation. Among those who contributed were: Mabel Ackley, Merton Farrell, Robert Timmons, Edna McShane, Donald Wilder, Gertrude Wade, Louis Holden, Milton Tanner, Grace Thannons, Hazel Yeoman, Marjorie Itane, Doris Smith, Hazel McLean, Fred Sturtevant, Molly Washburn, Charles Shields, Earl Cameron, Ethel Bartlett, Kenneth Cameron, Eddie Shepard, Doris Wadsworth, Elmer Petrie, Josephine Burbeck, Ethel Timmons, Elsie Petrie, Edna Wadsworth, George Shepard, Margaret McShane, Alfred Timmons, Anna Burbeck, Edith Vincent, Elizabeth Burbeck, Harold Petrie, John Huse, Elmer McIntosh.

St. Anne's Church

At the first service of the day at St. Anne's church the girls' auxiliary club appeared for the first time in their vestments and some 20 voices were heard. A girls' choir, although not new to many of the churches in the diocese, is an innovation at St. Anne's. Rev. Samuel H. Jobe, the assistant pastor was the celebrant. At the close of the service the girls sat down to breakfast in the choir room, which had been prepared through the courtesy of the rector.

The second service was at 9 a. m., when Rev. Edward Atkinson was the celebrant. At 10:30, the church was filled, seats having to be brought in to accommodate the large number attending. The rector, Rev. Appleton Grannis, preached on the text, "Behold I make things new."

In the afternoon the last of the confirmation instructions were given by the rector and at the close some 20 adults and children were baptized. In the evening, the annual Easter festival of the Sunday school was held in the church. In the procession through the church, both choirs were in line, followed by over 300 scholars. The American flag, a gift from the Women's Relief corps, was carried, and a beautiful church flag, a gift of the rector and the other banners of the various departments, made an impressive sight. Previous to the address, the rector spoke of the splendid work which was being done by his assistant, Rev. Mr. Jobe. In the Sunday school, an increase of over 100 scholars in the last year. He also complimented the teachers on their effective work.

Worthing Street Baptist

The Easter decorations at the Worthing Street Baptist church were simple, consisting of lilies and a profusion of green. In the evening there was a choral service by the Sunday school assisted by the choir, with the following program: Procession, "The Day of Resurrection," prayer; our greeting, Dorothy Parley; recitation, "Christ is Risen," Gretchen Carr; reading, "The Snake of a Thousand Villages," recitation, "Spread the Light," Hazel Vaughn; hymn, "God Hath Sent His Angels," exercise, "The Hero's Message to Us," Elizabeth Rhodes, Gladys Vaughn, Euphemia McPhail; recitation, "Risen," Hazel Roberts; exercise, "Haster Lilies," primary department; song, "Easter Light," primary department; reading, "On the Slave Trail," hymn, "O God of Bethel," recitation, "Easter Sunshine," Eunice Allen; recitation, "He is Risen," Dorothy Baker; recitation, "The Dawn of Hope," Helen Baker; reading, "True to His Promise," hymn, "O Morning Star," recitation, "Queen of Peace," recitation, "Queen of Peace," Rosabel O'Hare; reading, "Friends Who Were Faithful," collection; remarks by pastor; hymn, "We're a Story to Tell to the Nations."

First Universalist

At the First Universalist church the floral decorations were very beautiful. In the morning the Pilgrim commandery Knights Templars, attended in a body. The choir sang appropriate selections during the services, being assisted by Emil Bories, violinist. Notice was given that the Meriden Valley conference would meet with this church, Wednesday, tomorrow and afternoon. Rev. Mr. Sykes of Malden will preach the sermon. The sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Fisher, D. D., was upon "The Real Easter."

Rev. C. E. Porter preached at the Elliot Congregational church, Sunday morning, his topic being "The Power

Do you live in a house or in a home?

"The Homelike House"

Not every house is a home—in the real sense—but any house can be made a cheerful home if you know how. Whether you rent or own the house you live in, in some way you can make it more beautiful, more comfortable, more livable by following the instructions and by carrying out the novel ideas in the Companion's big department, "The Homelike House." It contains suggestions for just about every room in your house. It comes to you among the many other 15c good things in the April number for 15c.

If you plan to build

The April Woman's Home Companion is the house-building number. If you dream of building your own home, read the splendid articles that will help you to select the right town, the right plot and the right plans. Architectural designs, plans, specifications, costs, how to begin, how to handle contractors, how to carry out your own ideas, how to make every dollar do a dollar's work. All this and much more in the Woman's 15c Home Companion for April, only 15c.

We furnish the plans

A well-known architect has drawn plans, correct in every detail, for a big and for a little house. These plans will save you an immense amount of preliminary bother. Fascinating designs for gardens, lawns, driveways and walks are included, together with beautiful sketches of the houses in charming colors.

If you have longed for a bungalow, here are three of the coziest, homiest little bungalows that you ever saw. Inexpensive but wonderfully attractive. You will find the practical plans in the 15c April Woman's Home Companion for 15c.

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

Over $68,000 Required to Meet the Bills

MORE BUILDINGS FIRED

Suffragette Incendiaries

Destroy Property

LONDON, March 24.—Suffragette incendiaries marauded in London, before dawn today, setting fire to a house under construction. The women were disturbed during their work of destruction by a passing policeman. They fled and all trace of them was lost. The flames were extinguished before great damage had been done.

The championship golf links at Sandwich, Kent, were the scene of another raid by militant suffragettes, who damaged the greens considerably.

Clarence W. Whidden, treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. building fund, has submitted his report to the directors of the association. The new building cost, for erection, equipment and furnishings, $255,544.00; the pledges for the building fund totaled $168,594.25; for the furnishings $6000, and there was a sum totaling $53.50 that came in without pledges, making the grand total of subscriptions $175,654.45. The treasurer's report shows that the fund lacks $85,000 of being able to meet the bills for the new building and furnishings.

Of the building pledges, all but about $1000 have been paid or are collectable, leaving what Treasurer Whidden figures as not more than 4 per cent of the whole original sum pledged as uncollectable, a record of which the committee that raised the money in which the whirlwind campaign may well be proud.

Another item that appears modestly in the report is the fact that Treasurer Whidden put the cash to work, earning dividends as fast as it was received, so that he can show that the subscriptions earned over $5000 while lying idle, a sum sufficient to pay the cost of the campaign and of collecting the funds, and over $1500 besides.

Treasurer Whidden, it should be stated, gave his time to this work without remuneration, and it has been an immensely detailed work at that.

The old Y. M. C. A. property in Burd street was sold to Albert E. O'Hell for $25,000, but from this sum was deducted the mortgage of a little over $14,000 and a small sum paid Mr. O'Hell as interest on his deposit of $5000 to bind the bargain, the deeds not being delivered and the deal closed for over a year after that $5000 had been deposited. There was also the Buttrick legacy of $3000 from an old fund in the care of the trustees of the building fund.

The new site was purchased for $25,000, with the idea of utilizing the broken stonework foundation and arch of the canal in making the swimming pool. The foundations were found not to be dependable, and the building committee, after careful deliberation and expert engineering advice, changed the construction in order to make an absolutely safe foundation. This proved expensive, adding many thousands of dollars to the cost of the building. Other changes in the original plans were made from time to time.

Treasurer Whidden closes his report with the following statement: "Your treasurer, without the knowledge or consent of the chairman of the building committee, takes opportunity to say that, in his opinion, there has been no expenditure which was not thoroughly considered."

The final result is, that we have in Lowell a new Y. M. C. A. building, centrally located, thoroughly equipped, and well arranged to meet the needs of the association; and I have no hesitation in saying that Lowell has for its needs a new Y. M. C. A. building second to none in this commonwealth. It is, and should be, generously supported by the good people of Lowell, interested in the welfare and future of the Y. M. C. A. or Lowell.
